Greek Warship Picks Up Two Survivors—Details of Disaster Lacking

ATHENS, June 10.—Many lives are believed to have been lost in the sinking of the Greek steamship Bouboulina, which has struck a mine and foundered in the Aegean sea. The Greek battleship Lemnos has arrived at Piraeus from Smyrna with two passengers, who were picked up. Details of the disaster are lacking.

WILLIAM C. READY

Five Lowell young men were graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the annual commencement exercises held this afternoon. They were Charles H. J. O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. O'Donnell, of 60 Varnum street; William C. Ready, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ready, of 10 Bertha street; Kenneth Goward, son of Edward Goward, of 274 Appleton street; Albert Ralph Honig, son of Mrs. Lillian E. Honig, of 405 Westford street; and Elliott B. Roberts, of 22 Wedge street. Each of the young men received the degree of bachelor of science. Mr. O'Donnell, who was a graduate of the Lowell high school with the class of 1916, also received his degree in mechanical engineering.

Mr. Ready, who is but 21 years of age and who is thought to be one of the youngest members of the class, was graduated from the Lowell high school in 1917. He received his degree in civil engineering today. Mr. Ready was formerly lieutenant colonel of the high school regiment. He has had a Knights of Columbus scholarship for the past two years and during his first two years at Tech had state scholarships.

Mr. Goward is a graduate of the Lowell high school, class of 1916, and received his degree in engineering administration.

Mr. Honig was also a member of the class of 1916 at the high school, entering Technology in 1917. He received his degree in electrical engineering this afternoon. He served one year in the naval reserve during the world war and has accepted a position with the General Electric Co. of Schenectady, N. Y.

Mr. Roberts was graduated from the Lowell high school in 1917 and was awarded a degree in civil engineering this afternoon. He served in the army for a short time in 1918 and during his first two years at Tech as a member of the varsity track squad. During his last two years he was a member of the college chess team.

Attorney Johnson Argues Before Supreme Court in Support of Two Motions

Raises Question of Jurisdiction and Urges Scope of Inquiry Be Limited

BOSTON, June 10.—Counsel for Nathan A. Tufts, district attorney of Middlesex county, whose removal from office is sought by Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, argued before the supreme court today in support of two motions.

One of these motions raised the question of the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that a district attorney is a constitutional officer and as such, can only be removed by impeachment of the legislature.

W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the body, in an automobile accident at Indianapolis, Ind., early yesterday. This announcement was made today by officials of the organization here. The action will be taken through the state executive committee, of which John J. Walsh, of Westford street, is a member ex-officio, being county commander.

CHAMBER GETS LEGAL OPINION

Attorney Asserts Initiative Petitions Will Survive Officials' Failure to Act

The publication in The Sun yesterday of the opinion of City Solicitor William D. Regan that the chamber of commerce's initiative movement for contract work on the streets might reach a final quiet resting place, unacted upon, in the files of the city clerk's office, started things moving in the chamber's rooms this morning. Mr. Regan's opinion was to the effect that should it be impossible for the clerk and the election commissioners to comply with the provision of the city charter that the residences of nearly 3000 legal voters shall be certified as being of April 1, the petitions would automatically become of no effect.

An Attorney's Opinion

A leading attorney was consulted by the chamber officials today and he gave an opinion "that the petitions would not become ineffective or invalidated or dead, in the case that the election commissioners did not check the names and the city clerk attach his certificate of sufficiency within 10 days because of incomplete records, or gap in clerical matters."

"Chamber officials are backed in their belief that the names must be checked by the latest available list. If, perchance, petitions were filed in the second day of April, 1921, the assessors not having gathered names by that time, then it is believed that the commissioners would have to check the names within 10 days according to the latest available list, which would be that of 1920."

CHARGES VIOLATION OF BRIDGE CONTRACT

Charges that the Engineering Service and Construction Co. of Boston, the firm which is reconstructing Central bridge, is violating the terms of its contract with the city, were made by City Engineer Stephen Kearney and Prof. Louis E. Moore, consulting engineer on the bridge job before members of the city council today.

FEAR WATER IN NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

In order that it may have some guarantee that water will not flow into the new high school building during the summer months before the sewer now under construction in French and Kirk streets is completed, the high school building commission waited upon the municipal council in the mayor's reception room this noon and through its chairman, Dr. John H. Lambert, presented in detail conditions now confronting the contractor who is erecting the building.

Dr. Lambert said that the work of putting the roof on the new building will be delayed unless some provision is made to drain water from it. There will also be a delay in concreting the basement floor of the new building if adequate accommodations for taking care of excess water are not furnished and this, in turn, will delay the installation of considerable equipment. Dr. Lambert explained. He said that he understood the sewer now under process of construction would not be ready until the fall and for that reason the commission wished the municipal council to do something to hurry matters along.

City Engineer Stephen Kearney said

Rumors of Liquor Scandal Involving Former Prohibition Officer and Well Known Lowell Men

Rumors of one of the biggest liquor scandals in the city's history, involving a former United States prohibition officer and well known Lowell men, are current here today. It is understood that a number of Lowell police officers, together with others, testified yesterday before the federal grand jury at Boston, with reference to alleged unlawful taking of money from illicit liquor dealers of this city, and other offenses connected with the enforcement of national prohibition.

Testimony was given, it is believed, to the effect that liquor seized in Lowell was never turned over to the proper federal authorities and charges connected with illegal disposition of whisky or other spirits may be made, it is thought.

Genoa Club in Tyngsboro Scene of Lively Gathering Today--Industrial School Boys' Picnic

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL BOYS LEAVING ON ANNUAL OUTING

The annual field day and outing of the Lowell Vocational school was held today on the Genoa club grounds in Tyngsboro, the use of which had been given through the kindness of the local council of the Knights of Columbus. The boys assembled at the school at the usual hour, leaving for the grounds shortly before 2 o'clock and going over the road in auto trucks. On arrival at the club grounds a baseball game was started between teams representing the automobile and machine departments. As all other departments had been previously eliminated in preliminary games the winner of today's game will be given a banner emblematic of the school championship for the present season. The midday teams of the various departments also had their games.

Luncheon had the call at 12 o'clock and after a rest period more baseball games were staged. A series of track events were also held. The boys were divided into two classes--those under and over 115 pounds. Individual prizes were awarded the winners of the various events, while the highest scorer of points was given a cup. The department scoring the greatest total of points was given a championship pennant. The arrangements for the outing were made by Principal Thomas F. Fisher while the athletic program was in charge of John H. Gillick, faculty manager and coach of athletics. Maj. Colby T. Kittredge, physical instructor, and members of the faculty acted as umpire and judges of the various events.

WILL BORROW $20,000

City to Complete Morey School Addition--Automobile for City Engineer

The municipal council at a meeting held early this afternoon voted to borrow $20,000 to complete the construction of the new 14-room addition to the Morey school. The order was introduced at a previous meeting by Commissioner George E. Marchand and has been duly advertised. A portion of the money originally appropriated for the Morey school has been spent for other school construction work and hence, the need for more money. The council directed the city clerk to advertise a requisition instructing the purchasing agent to buy an automobile for the city engineer at a cost not to exceed $150. This matter was brought up at the council's meeting Tuesday but was defeated by Commissioner Marchand because there was no provision in the vote to have the requisition advertised. However, it was passed unanimously today to be advertised.

The city clerk was also directed to advertise a vote introduced by Commissioner Marchand appropriating $1644.30 from the general treasury to the buildings department, this sum representing insurance money received as the result of a fire at the Washington school. A requisition for the purchase of a pair of horses for the health department at a cost not to exceed $400 was approved.

The city clerk was instructed to invide officials of the school department to be present at the next meeting of the council, Tuesday morning, to discuss the request of the school committee for funds to erect a bungalow near the Morey school for the use of domestic science classes.

A petition that a pole in front of 453 Chalmers street be moved 15 feet was referred to Commissioners Marchand and Murphy.

The petition of C. E. Ouellette, et al, that Midland street be closed, was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

The petition of Harry L. Gonzales for a license to sell, rent and lease ammunition and gun powder at 10 Appleton street was referred for a hearing June 25.

The claim of Rowena Brown for damages resulting from her falling in Chalmers street on May 27 was referred to the law department.

A contract between the purchasing agent and the American Tar company for 100,000 gallons, more or less, of refined tar binder for the use of the street department was approved.

A communication from Charles Stickney relative to street closing was placed on file. After monthly bills had been approved the council adjourned to Tuesday at 10 a. m.

The next regular meeting of the legion boys in this city is scheduled for Monday, June 20, but it is believed that a special meeting may be called in the interim with reference to Galbraith's death. As Memorial hall is understood to be engaged for every evening in the near future, some other location may be announced for the proposed special gathering. As leading figures in the legion post were out-of-town today, further details of projected plans were not available to the press.

WANT BETTER SERVICE TO SALISBURY BEACH

Mayor Perry D. Thompson was one of the Merrimack valley officials present at a conference held in the Lawrence city hall this morning relative to an increase of railroad service to Salisbury beach during the summer months. Mayor Flanders of Haverhill and Mayor White of Lawrence together with a number of aldermen from the latter cities were present. The Boston & Maine railroad was represented by Mr. Grant, the general passenger agent.

Mayor White told Mr. Grant that there was more or less demand in his city for better service to the beach on Saturdays and Sundays and said that he believed that the people of other Merrimack valley cities, a large number of whom are in the habit of going to Salisbury, would appreciate more frequent service.

Mr. Grant said that the Boston & Maine would willingly increase the service if the returns would warrant it, but he said in 1916 when the road ran a special train to Salisbury on Sundays the travel was exceedingly light even under the low rates then in effect.

With the increased rates now being charged, he doubts if a special train during the week-end would be feasible. Mayor Thompson said that he had heard of no agitation for more frequent service from Lowell people. He was told that the fare between this city and Salisbury on the railroad was about $2.50.

CLOTHESLINE THIEVES NOT ACTIVE HERE

Rumors of extensive clothesline thefts in the Highlands district and other sections of the city are so much piffle, to judge from the statement today of a high police official of the local department. "There have been no large thefts from clothesline in Lowell for several months," was the statement which came in response to a question as to the basis for the reports. "At that time the same crowd of boys who engineered a number of petty breakers probably also were responsible for the loss of clothing put out to dry by industrious housewives. But these gangs appear to have been broken up." No announcement of any such thefts as have been described has been made to the press at police headquarters.

The tale set afloat by some unknown agency relates that a mysterious culprit, who rejoices especially in men's silk shirts and men's expensive underwear, or expensive men's underwear as you like, has been despoiling back yards of the choicest articles of the week's wash. Residents are lamenting, according to this story, their most prized linen, and the police are baffled by the bold bad invader of backyards. But if this be so, the police have nothing to say about it. And, as has been mentioned, one official high in the department, stigmatizes the whole concoction as nonsense.

leading from the present Kirk street sewer and that a guarantee could be obtained from the Locks and Canals saying that that corporation would refrain from sending excess water into the sluiceway near the Merrimack hills which might possibly send water into the high school building. If the Locks & Canals agreed to this, he said, the city would guarantee that no water would get into the basement of the building. Mr. Kearney also said that work on the construction of the new sewer is being speeded up and he had hoped that the job would be completed by September 1.

This satisfied the high-school commission and it was decided to make an effort at once to get the guarantee from the Locks and Canals that Mr. Kearney mentioned. The commission brought up several other matters relative to their finances, one of which was a bill for legal services which the commission had not requested. Mayor Thompson suggested that the matter be put in writing and presented to the council at a later date. The high school commission agreed to do so.

OPEN HOUSE AT AMHERST

Mass. Agricultural College
Celebrates Its Semi-Centennial

Sec. Wallace Speaks on the Problems of the Agriculturist

AMHERST, June 10.—Massachusetts Agricultural college, celebrating its semi-centennial held open house today. The day was spent as citizens' day and representatives of many agricultural and business organizations joined with alumni and undergraduates in the observance. The presentation of an original play, portraying the early days of the college, was one feature of the program.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace spoke of the problems of the agriculturist of today as compared with those of half a century ago. Because of the capital required to carry on farming nowadays, he said, the matter of financial credit had become one of the most pressing problems.

Describing Massachusetts as one of the great industrial states of the union, Gov. Cox declared that while it was desirable to maintain industrial supremacy the people were coming to see that industrial and commercial progress depended in a large measure on development of agricultural resources.

"We cannot maintain a great army of industrial workers unless we have at hand a sufficient food supply," the governor said.

"It is not a healthy condition when we are obliged to import more than 50 per cent of the food consumed in Massachusetts. It is not a sound condition when thousands of acres of fertile land lie idle. Much has already been done in building good roads through country districts. Much has been done to give school aid to the small communities. As yet little has been done to secure for farmers the credits which are necessary for their undertakings or to bring to the attention of the farmers the possible benefit that may be derived through a spirit of co-operation."

The development of agriculture in this state since the days of the Pilgrims was outlined by Arthur W. Gilbert, state commissioner of agriculture. Farmers from the Massachusetts hills, along with their brothers from other New England states, he added, had laid the real foundation upon which much of the present great west had been built.

THE FOREST PRINCESS

Lowell Normal School Dramatic Club Scores Big Success in Masque

The excellent acting, aided and abetted by gorgeous costuming, graceful dancing, pleasing music, and a most appropriate background provided by nature itself, combined to make a striking success of "The Forest Princess," a masque presented yesterday afternoon by the dramatic club of the Normal school at the grounds of the institution. The proceeds of the production, which was attended by many local and out-of-town people, some of whom came by automobile from long distances, will go to the dormitory building fund. Misses Helen Hogan and Miriam Milner, of the faculty, directed the piece, while the music was in charge of Miss Inez Field Damon. The dancing was under the direction also of Miss Milner, and Mrs. Herbert Cubberty and other members of the staff likewise participated in the preparing of the masque.

A cast intelligently chosen and coached gave a most adequate and finished performance. Miss Ruth Walker, in the title role, displayed a notable understanding of the exigencies of pageantry and outdoor histrionism. Possessed of an unusually effective stage presence, and gowned strikingly in a robe of yellow gold and light blue which set off to perfection the red-brown tones of her beautifully coiffured hair, Miss Walker read her lines understandingly and with a restraint which admirably fitted the part which she assumed.

A very special commendation must be extended to Miss Martha Gallagher, in the difficult part of Swamp Oak, the witch of ill omen. The lines of this role require a most exacting reading, and this was given by Miss Gallagher. Applause followed each of her appearances, and it was well merited.

As the king, Miss Viola March was the imperial but gracious monarch to the life, while Miss Beatrice Hosmer made a charming consort to his majesty. Eleanor Sullivan was an ingratiating Prince Undore, the heir apparent of a kingdom of dreams and hopes. The haughty Prince Uric fell to the lot of Miss Mary Balfrey, who carried off the part with a clever representation of the pomposity and snobbery of that well-dressed but not so well-dispositioned royal young person. The other speaking roles were numerous, as a number of young ladies of the school were seen as the spirits of various trees. They were no less appreciated for their lissom dancing than for the manner in which they recited their lines.

The ensemble, comprising peasants, shepherds, lords and ladies, also delighted the audience with some dainty stepping on the greenward. The well-contrasted costumes lent added effect to this phase of the entertainment.

The story of the piece, which is the work of Constance d'Arcy Mackay, treats of a baby found in the woodland and adopted by the king and queen to be their daughter, and princess of the realm. At the christening, after benedict druids have conferred sunny blessings upon the infant, the malevolent Swamp Oak witch, who has not been invited, declares that the beauty of the child shall wax and wane with the moon, and that when that orb is absent from the skies she shall be a palsied and withered crone. The spirit of the Silver Birch removes some of the evil from the curse by stating that it shall end when a prince shall kiss the princess. Again Swamp Oak displays the unpleasantness of her temperament by declaring that this career must be bestowed during the time when the princess takes on the guise of an aged woman.

In the second and third episodes the final ending of Swamp Oak's disagreeable spell is shown. The kind Prince Undore kisses the princess while her beauty is faded, thus breaking the enchantment, and incidentally winning the royal maiden from his valiant rival, Prince Uric.

Dances of various sorts intersperse the unfolding of the plot. Music for the spectacle was provided by the Normal school orchestra, comprising: Misses Marion Edgerton and Christine MacPherson, piano; Miss Madeline Sharkey, first violin; Miss Anna O'Connell, second violin; and Miss Eleanor Ward, cello.

A notable feature of the production was the education of the young ladies. In the open air particular pains must be taken to make dialogue audible, and these pains were most intelligently given by each of those who were called upon to deliver lines. Each verse was given slowly and distinctly, albeit with the proper expression and inflection. Many favorable comments were heard on this phase of the acting, which eliminated a disagreeable feature all too common in most amateur productions.

AIRPLANE PICKS UP WINE IN OCEAN

NEW YORK, June 10.—Three thirsty
aviation enthusiasts flew 20 miles out to sea in a seaplane yesterday afternoon and there consumed the contents of two bottles of sparkling champagne, tossed to them from the deck
of the liner La France, bound for Havre.

They were Andre P. Pilot, New
York broker and sportsman; his friend,
Rene Joubert, and his pilot, John Manner. Their benefactors were Miss Matilda Pilot, sister of the broker, and

Harry Eskine, a friend, who were passengers on La France.

Miss Pilot and Eskine had promised to drop the champagne overboard
if the trio would meet their steamer beyond the three-mile limit. They did better; they circled over the vessel for 20 miles, alighted among the big swells and picked up the bottles, to which floats had been attached. One bottle was lost.

Boston's Women Golfers Win Cup

BROOKLINE, June 10.—Boston's women golfers today brought the Griscum cup back to Massachusetts after an absence of nine years, winning from New York in the last round of the annual inter-city series, 8 to 7. A high light of the day's play was the victory of the 17-year-old girl, Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., playing for Boston, against Mrs. M. Arnold Jackson of New York, former national champion. The score was 1 up.

It is probable also that a delegation will be appointed to attend the funeral which will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning at Fall River, John Hanley, president of the Lowell Textile council, will attend the funeral as a member of the executive board of the U.T.W.

Will Not Unexpired Term

It was learned today that Thomas P. McMahon, first vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, will automatically succeed Mr. Golden as president of the organization for the remainder of the term, the election of a president to take place at the annual convention of the union, which will be held at Knoxville, Tenn., on the second Monday in September. Mr. McMahon is well and favorably known in this city, where he spent three years as a national organizer. He was elected to the office of first vice president at the convention held in this city in 1917.

SACO-LOWELL OUTING

The members of the office force of the Saco-Lowell shops can work when it is time to work and they can enjoy themselves, too. This was proved last evening when a party of young men and women spent a few hours at Canobie lake park. The party left the office of the shops at 6:30 o'clock in pullman cars and journeyed to the summer resort, where the first number on the program was a beautiful supper, which was enjoyed at the lake restaurant. After the inner man had been looked after, the various amusements at the park were taken in and a bowling match between the young men and young women took place, the latter winning by a large margin. It is said, dancing was enjoyed, the young women were treated to ice cream and other good things and then the return trip was made, and today, although a little tired, all who took part were well satisfied with the outing. One member of the party stated today that last evening's affair was one of several that will be held during the summer.

Portuguese Government Sues Pilot

BOSTON, June 10.—The Portuguese government today brought suit in the federal court here against Russell W. Rotch, a New Bedford pilot, for damages of $330,000 alleged to have been caused by the grounding of the Portuguese steamship Sao Vicente in New Bedford harbor last January. The steamer bound from Lisbon carried 247 passengers and was ashore for five days. The libel charges Rotch with negligence in running the steamer at high speed asserting that the weather was clear when the vessel went ashore at noon, Jan. 20. Action was brought by Daniel A. Shea, former assistant United States attorney in behalf of the Portuguese ministry of commerce and of Captain Marino and members of the crew of the Sao Vicente. It is said to be the first action of the kind brought in this country.

The members of the municipal council instructed Mr. Kearney to put an inspector on the job who shall watch the work being done by the company and suggested that the company's officials be notified that they must live strictly up to the terms of their contract with the city. Mr. Kearney said that he had held up a bill presented today by the company pending a settlement of the matter which he had brought to the attention of the council.

Denies Right to Removal

The other motion asks the court to limit the investigation to Mr. Tufts' present term of office and to bar alleged acts committed in previous terms. In his opening statement, Melvin M.

Johnson, counsel for Mr. Tufts, asserted that the proceeding was in the nature of an impeachment and that the object sought by Attorney-General Allen was not to frame an indictment or to lay a charge against Mr. Tufts but to remove him from office on charges made in the information.

"The first five paragraphs," said Mr. Johnson, "charge the respondent with improper conduct in connection with one Barney Barney committed a crime in the Suffolk district for which he was apprehended, tried, convicted, sentenced and imprisoned in that district. He escaped from Suffolk into the northwestern district."

"Mr. Tufts, acting not as district attorney, but as an individual, succeeded in apprehending Barney in the northwestern district and bringing him back through the northern district to the Suffolk district and to the custody of the warden of the state prison from whom he escaped."

"It is charged that the respondent violated the provisions of the so-called true-name-law by registering in a hotel a certain police officer whose name was Edward P. O'Halloran, under the name of Thomas A. Fleming. At the time of the registration, Mr. Tufts was in the company of Officer O'Halloran, endeavoring to apprehend Barney. Mr. Tufts' act in so registering, if proved as alleged, therefore, was an act in his individual capacity and not in his capacity as district attorney."

Mr. Johnson called attention to rumors which he said had been widely circulated to the effect that one Justice already had expressed an opinion in the case. He characterized it as "insidious propaganda" and declared he did not believe it to be a fact. Counsel then took up charges against

Mr. Tufts alleging unlawful conspiracy to threaten certain persons with indictment for the purpose of fraudulently extorting money. Included in these charges was one in which a road house in Woburn was mentioned in connection with the allegation that certain men who had been guests there had been induced to pay $100,000 to avoid prosecution and publicity. Mr. Johnson characterized many of these paragraphs of the information as so vague that Mr. Tufts "does not know the things with which he is therein charged except that he may be able to guess in a few instances."

"It is evident, however," continued Mr. Johnson, "that some if not most of these paragraphs relate to acts or omissions committed or omitted by Mr. Tufts prior to Nov. 4, 1919, the date upon which he was elected by the people of the northern district to the present office from which it is sought to remove him. It is probable also that other charges contained in these paragraphs relate to acts or omissions on the part of Mr. Tufts which had no relation to his duties as district attorney."

"While counsel appear of record as attorneys for Mr. Tufts, they come into the court in a broader sense representing the voters of the northern district, who by an unprecedented majority, have re-elected Mr. Tufts district attorney," said Mr. Johnson. "It seems to counsel to be his duty and theirs to see to it that the district attorney who has been chosen by the votes of the people shall not be called upon to account for the performance of his duties except by the method pointed out by the people in the constitution of the commonwealth adopted by them."

POLISH WOMEN'S CLUB

First Meeting and Entertainment of Summer Season Held Last Evening

Their first meeting and entertainment of the summer season was held last evening by the Lowell Polish Women's club, with practically the entire membership of thirty in attendance. Miss W. J. Novina-Sroczyńska was in charge of the program, which included a number of instrumental selections by an orchestra of high school girls.

MISS W. J. NOVINA-SROCZYŃSKA

directed by Miss Serena Bartlett, pianist. Miss Etta Thompson gave a group of songs, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to games and dancing. Refreshments were served by Polish girls, in charge of Miss Novina-Sroczyńska, who is responsible for the organization of the body and the direction of its many activities.

A most successful winter season was experienced by the organization, whose members attended in a body classes in cooking, dress-making, millinery, and other phases of domestic science at the public evening school sessions. Reports were read as to the financial standing and future plans of the club, and the meeting adjourned.

Miss Novina-Sroczyńska, who leads many Polish activities in this city, is now planning for a class in canning among the younger girls of the Polish group.

HOME BREWING ON WANE

16 Tons of Raisins Used for Purpose in 1919—Demand Now Decreasing

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Home brewers used up more than 16,000 tons of raisins in 1919, W. M. Giffen, president of the California Associated Raisin company, estimated yesterday in giving a senate subcommittee his views on the pending bill to authorize collective bargaining by farmers. He placed the raisin grape crop of 1919 at 167,000 tons and of 1918 at 153,000 tons, the difference, in his judgment, representing demand from home brewers.

This demand was now decreasing, he added, the "hobby" for home brewing apparently having worn itself out to some extent.

SENATE TAKES UP IRISH RECOGNITION RESOLVES

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Resolutions of Senators La Follette, Wisconsin, and Norris, Nebraska, republicans, proposing American recognition of Irish independence, were taken up yesterday by the senate foreign relations committee and decision was made to hear the authors in executive session.

SOLLEY READMITTED TO BAIL SET AT $5000

BOSTON, June 10.—George W. Solley, convicted of immorality, surrendered himself in the superior criminal court, yesterday, and relieved his bondsman on bail of $10,000. The surety was Samuel Johnson of South Boston, a real estate dealer.

Dist. Atty. Pelletier consented to bail being placed at $5,000, and Solley was readmitted to that bail, with Demarest Lloyd and Arthur W. Joslin as sureties. Lloyd swore he was worth $100,000, and Joslin that he was worth $20,000.

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott of Medina

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money" isn't everything in this world. There is many a big hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such nobly healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all drug stores for 35 cents a large box.

Read this letter, written Feb. 11, 1918, by Mrs. Albert, Southcott, of Medina, N. Y. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it.

I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used my ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

Is it any wonder I am happy? Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the same I am cured. The ulcer was 3 inches by 4 1/2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again.

You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it. Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MOTORISTS BARRED FROM HIGHWAYS

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 10.—Orders recently issued by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, bar three Lowell motorists from all highways in Massachusetts.

One of these is Joseph W. Achin of 42 Mt. Vernon street, who on May 13 was driving one of the cars which crashed just outside of Lowell, causing the death of Wilfred C. Cognate.

Achin has not had a license to drive, but was operating at the time under the general authority given to any person to drive a car if accompanied by a licensed operator. This right, however, has now been taken away in the case of Achin, and in future he must do his automobile as merely a passenger.

James W. O'Neill of Charlestown, who was driving the other car involved in the accident, was the holder of a chauffeur's license and this has been taken away from him.

Another unlicensed Lowell motorist who has been forbidden to operate is Louis C. Usher, who lives at the Y.M. C. A. and who on May 6 was involved in an accident which resulted in the death of James Harold Donaghy.

The third motorist involved in Mr. Goodwin's recent orders is David Brabant of 73 Worthen street, who was convicted in the Lowell court April 9 on a charge of operating so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered. Brabant's registration of his motor cycle has been taken away, so that neither he nor anyone else can operate it.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Lowell Girl is Vice President of Her Class

Miss Louise H. McKenna of this city is playing a prominent part in the commencement exercises at Trinity college this week inasmuch as she is vice-president of her class. A number of Lowell people are attending the exercises.

The O'Connor auditorium of the college was a scene of great beauty when the senior class held its Class Day exercises at 4.30 Wednesday. The program included a history, essay, poem, prophecy, and was interspersed with songs appropriate to the occasion.

The stage was artistically decorated, the color scheme of blue and white representing the class colors. Hemmed in on all sides by beautiful floral pieces, the seniors, eighty in number, dressed in white and each holding an American Beauty rose, presented a picture of loveliness as they sat on the stage.

One of the most charming events of the program was the daisy chain of white and yellow daisies which was held by the sophomores as an arch above the seniors as they passed out of the hall on their way to the Avenue Hill on the campus where, according to tradition, Ivy was planted and an oration delivered by one of the seniors.

The program of the day closed with a banquet in the evening, at which a large number of the alumni was present.

treasurer, Gladys M. Flynn of Minneapolis, Minn.; student government representative, Margaret M. Desmond of Somerville, Mass.

FORTUNE SEEKERS ARE GATHERING FOR DASH

EDMONTON, Alta., June 10.—Fortune seekers from all parts of Canada and various parts of the United States are gathering for their dash into the far north oil and mineral fields when navigation opens about the middle of June.

Edmonton, Port McMurray and Peace river crossing, the latter two gateways into the Mackenzie river basin oil fields, are showing signs of great activity with large fleets of river steamers and gasoline boats getting ready for the short summer transportation season.

Edmonton railroad yards are jamming through freight for north points and both Port McMurray and Peace river crossing are experiencing unprecedented prosperity and bustle, all coming from the first wave of the oil boom.

The little town of Port McMurray has already doubled its population since last fall and with the opening of navigation it is expected to reach four times its previous size. Many new buildings are being erected, while along the banks of the river, boats, scows and lumber craft are being constructed.

Peace River Crossing also is garnering its share of the rush. This town is the temporary headquarters of the government parties going into the north country this year in addition to oil prospectors. Ten government parties are getting ready at Peace River or have already taken the field from this point, including four topographical, one geological and one astronomical survey parties. Another government party will make an exhaustive report of the possibilities of the new oil fields.

River men say that they will be able to handle all freight offered for northern streams and solved the problem of low water which threatened to tie up migration to their Mackenzie fields.

In the meantime the activity at Port McMurray and Peace River Crossing is growing in intensity daily. Every train to the north is crowded and travellers from both points say that accommodations are at a premium. One party leaving here for Port McMurray took along their own bedding and shelter tents, reports being that they would be unable to obtain them on arrival. River craft are taking the water daily at both these points.

That Edmonton authorities anticipate some difficulty with parties of "chickadees" or newcomers, in the country is evident from the stringent regulations governing entry into the new lands.

At all police points manned by the Royal Northwest mounted police, oil seekers and others are compelled to show their entry permit. These permits are not issued unless the applicants satisfy the police patrols, composed of hardened "mushers" and "sour-doughs" that they are physically capable of enduring hardships, are properly equipped for a long journey and are assured of being able to return to civilization at the end of the season's work. Failing in this they must show that they have a grub stake sufficient for a full 12 months or that they have the necessary orders on the trading posts already established to carry them through for a year's supply of food.

Thus far few of those applying for permits have been refused by police officials.

Later on, when the real rush begins, police officials say, considerable weeding out will have to be done.

The 15-mile portage between Port Fitzgerald and Port Smith is expected to show considerable congestion when the rush starts, old timers say, notwithstanding the presence of 50 teams and several powerful tractors which have been sent to this strip of land to cope with the influx.

The two natural routes leading to Port Norman fields are via Peace River Crossing and Port McMurray. There are two other routes, however, which would land the travellers in the new fields from six weeks to two months earlier than by either the Peace or McMurray lines, but both these routes call for long portages and considerable outfit.

LAST TRIBUTE TO NOTED AVIATRIX

NEW YORK, June 10.—To the drone of airplane motors overhead, the police department yesterday paid its last respects to Miss Laura Bromwell, noted reserve aviatrix who was killed last week at Mitchell field, while seeking to establish a new record for looping the loop.

All the honors of a police officer were accorded the young reserve captain, by whose courage fellow members in the department so often had been thrilled.

After the service in a private chapel, the body was carried in a long cortege to the Pennsylvania station, where it was sent to Toledo, the home of Miss Bromwell's sister, for burial.

Eleven thousand new books were published in Great Britain last year.

WAS BORN IN ARSENAL

BOSTON, June 10.—The birth in the United States arsenal at Watertown of Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., who was killed at Indianapolis yesterday, may be said to have been in keeping with his career through life as a fighter. He attended grammar school until he was 10, and then went with his father to San Diego, Cal., where he obtained work as a track walker. A roundhouse fight was the nightly program of the trackwalkers in those days and the future colonel gave a good account of himself. At the age of 13 he made another cross-country jump to Springfield, where at 16 he became foreman of a factory. He studied to fit himself for the naval academy and passed the mental examinations, but was six months over the age limit. Still resolved to be a trained seaman, he entered the Massachusetts Nautical training school, completed a three years' course in less than a year and at 18 was assigned to the ship Enterprise and made a trip to Japan on another voyage to Japan he risked his life in fighting his way through all flames to save a comrade who was aslaid. From that time he was known to officers and crew as the "Batling third mate."

After six years at sea he returned to Springfield. He went to work for a packing field and a year later was made general superintendent. The firm had been in the hands of receivers and Galbraith who had been especially assigned to put the plant on an efficient basis was credited by the directors with having saved $100,000 a year without decreasing production.

His creed as commander of the American Legion was expressed in an address at the City club here last year in the words: "One America for Americans; let the rest get out."

INCUBATORS INCREASE SUPPLY OF PHEASANTS

MARSHFIELD, June 10.—Incubators are being used by the division of Fisheries and game of the state department of conservation to provide sport for the hunters and food for the people.

On a farm here pheasants, which in recent years have been growing scarce, have been hatched in large numbers by machine and are being cared for in steam heated brooders until they are strong enough to shift for themselves. Then they will be turned loose in various sections of the state. Experiments to ascertain the feasibility of raising pheasants by artificial means, have been underway here for the past two years and this year the work was started in earnest. About 2500 eggs, some obtained from the station's brood stock and others from private dealers, were placed in the incubators at various intervals. In the course of time 3889 chicks were hatched and transferred to brooders. As they gain strength they are gradually moved from one house to another, of lower temperature until finally they reach a pen without any artificial heat.

To overcome the familiarity with pheasants developed during the 10 or two weeks in the brooding houses the last pen is trimmed thickly with small trees and heaps of boughs to provide hiding places. On being introduced into this pen, officials say, the young birds show no inclination whatever to take to the water, but after a few days they learn to work their way into the brush, to take cover when startled and to roost at night. About five weeks is required for the birds to become properly feathered ready to take their chances in the woods against hunters. The stocking of the woods together with the natural spread of the bird in a few years, officials believe, will go a long way toward meeting the shortage of fowl for human consumption in this state. It is estimated that shippers in the south and west now send $30,000,000 worth of poultry into Massachusetts annually.

PEACE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, June 10.—Peace between Rumania and soviet Russia seems assured, says Take Jonesco, Rumanian minister of foreign affairs.

"We do not meddle in internal Russian affairs," he said, "any more than we would permit any meddling in ours. The soviets reiterate that they have no intention of attacking us. I am bound to believe them and I know that we shall not attack."

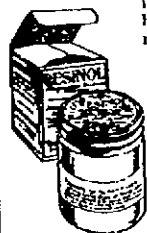

"According to our information there are fewer Bolshevik troops on our frontier than there were during the winter."

"Likewise we have truly friendly, fraternal relations with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Greece. With Poland we are in agreement to maintain peace on our eastern frontiers. We are opposed to the return of the Hapsburgs which would be a great danger for the peace of Europe."

Economic conditions in Rumania, he said, were improving, the finances were in good condition and the future seemed favorable.

FRANK KNOX DESCRIBES REVERENCE FOR UNKNOWN POILU IN PARIS

This War Memorial Outshines in Popular Esteem the Tomb of Napoleon—American Memorial Disappointing as Compared With Others

Here is another of the letters of Editor Frank Knox of Manchester, N. H., now on a visit to France. He is viewing the war memorials of France and finds the American group very disappointing in an array in which the heroism of France is represented in superb art.

(Special to The Sun)
PARIS, May 10.—For nearly a century the shrine of France has been the tomb of the great Napoleon. In the Invalides, she now has a new shrine before which that of the warrior-emperor loses its appeal. It is a symbol of much of its significance and is placed in the popular affection, reverence and pride. It is the tomb of an unknown soldier, a simple soldier's grave, beneath the flagstones of the lofty arch which commemorates the triumphs of one hundred years ago. The Are de Triomphe. On the stone that covers the grave in cut the simple but stirring phrase: "Un soldat Inconnu. Mort pour la Patrie." An unknown soldier, it is said for his country. About three sides of the grave is a bronze barrier, about the height of a man's waist, and on the inside of this bronze railing lean the floral tributes, always fresh, brought hither by comrades in arms, by military organizations, some of whose numbers helped to make up that great role of the unknown dead, and most touching of all, simple tributes from the homes of the poor and the humble, who gave one of their number to that nameless army that gave even their identity that France might be saved. To the mothers and wives whose sons and husbands went forth to battle, and never returned, to whom is denied the poor solace of knowing where the loved one lies, this unknown soldier who sleeps beneath the Are de Triomphe is their son, or their husband, and here they come to shed their bitter tears and do homage to his memory. It is a spot more sacred than any other in all France, richer in meaning, more profound in significance. It is approached with hushed head. Not a man came near while I stood beside that grave in the very

DOCTORS DEFER VOTE ON USE OF ALCOHOL

BOSTON, June 10.—Action on a resolution defining the attitude of the American Medical Association on the prescription of liquor was postponed until the next annual session yesterday when the house of delegates of the association assembled for the final meeting of its 72nd annual convention.

The house which expressed its approval of "all proper activities of state and federal governments directed to the prevention of disease and the preservation of health," voted to hold the next annual convention in St. Louis and elected Dr. George E. Schewitz of Philadelphia, president for 1922. The liquor question came before the house in the form of a resolution offered by Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of Ann Arbor, Mich. It reiterated and affirmed the judgment of the house in 1917 that the use of alcohol as a beverage is detrimental to human economy and that there is no scientific basis for its use as a food and in the treatment of patients.

The vote on the resolution was a tie, which was broken by Dr. Dwight H. Murray of Syracuse, speaker of the house. After the vote, Dr. A. T. McCormack of Louisville, Ky., who tried to prevent postponement asked immediate action regarding "the prostitution of the privileges of the medical profession" by those who prescribe liquor indiscriminately. The house finally passed a resolution presented by the council on health and public instruction which deplored the reproach that has been brought upon the profession by members who have misused the law concerning prescription of alcohol and which expressed the association's disapproval of the "acceptance of a small minority of the profession of the position of being purveyors of alcoholic beverages."

Resolutions offered by four state medical societies differed in their denunciations of "state medicine" and the committee on legislation and public relations, which took them under consideration introduced a supplementary report upon which the approved resolution was based.

In this report also the committee reaffirmed its support of President Harding's policy for reorganizing the public welfare activities of the nation. It recommended that patients suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis be kept in private wards and rooms in the general hospitals of the country, and advocated a survey of the subject of vaccination with a view to educating the public on the question.

Selenium oxychloride is the most powerful solvent now known to science.

Unite to Study How to Rear Babies

CHICAGO, June 10—Mothers are going to school now so that they will know how to educate their children. The schools are conducted by the Child Conservation League of America. The mothers' circles meet twice monthly for a study course extending over three years. Textbooks and papers are prepared by specialists on child culture. The lessons start with the child at birth, show the mother how to stimulate the child's imagination through nature studies, teach psychology of adolescence, sex hygiene, music, art, social service and domestic science. Mrs. Mary Loux Beckwith is national secretary. Here is an article she writes for the mothers of America.

By MARY LOUX BECKWITH
The Child Conservation League was organized eight years ago to provide a definite course of study in child life, child nurture, education, discipline and welfare. Today we have organized circles in 29 states with a membership of 32,373 mothers eager to become better equipped to train their children. The work accomplished has brought inquiries regarding our methods from Norway, Japan, Alaska, South America, Canada, Philippines, Germany, Switzerland and France. Undoubtedly the United States leads in the work of conserving child life. We are working now for an endowment fund to train mothers who can not afford a membership. Civic improvement logically follows in the wake of instructed mothers. Some of the activities of local circles are story telling hours, kindergartens, public playgrounds with trained supervisors, better movies, public school nurses and the feeding of undernourished children at recesses. I regard the story telling hour as one of the most important factors in child training. Children are thirsty to learn and can best be reached through their awakening imagination. In 11 months I received ten thousand letters from mothers. They asked for suggestions on entertainments and games for young people, how to control a daughter's tendency toward long clothes, how to guide a son vocationally, what to feed an undernourished child—and even the best remedy for thumb sucking. Improvement in methods of child training naturally is a duty of mothers. The earnestness with which mothers are seeking instruction and guidance in the problems of parenthood is one of the most promising signs of our national life.

CAPT. BELKNAP TELLS STORY OF BARRAGE

Capt. R. R. Belknap, U.S.N., commandant of the War college at Newport, R. I., told the story of "The North Sea Mine Barrage" at a meeting of the Grace Church Men's club last night. The address was illustrated with stereopticon slides made from photographs taken by the speaker, who was the senior officer of the mine sweeping division of the navy operating in the North sea during the war. The speaker told of the growth of the mine-laying of three vessels at the opening of the war to an efficient and well equipped operating force, and described the mine bases in this country and Scotland. He referred to the laying of mines in a way to hinder the movements of German "subs" as one of the achievements of the war. At the completion of the address a short business session was held and 15 new members were admitted. The total membership is now 223. The following officers were elected: President, Ora W. Hardy; vice president, H. E. Davis; secretary, R. S. Robertson; treasurer, O. Forrest Martin; directors, Leon W. Richardson, Frank A. Proctor, Howard D. Smith, Roger R. Gage, E. A. Kent and Norman B. Reed.

BAN ON IMMIGRANTS ON LINERS IN PORTS LIFTED

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Immigrants otherwise admissible but brought into the ports of the United States in excess of the quota fixed for June under the percentage immigration restriction law will be allowed to land under nominal bond and will be admitted permanently in the July quota, E. J. Henning, assistant secretary of labor, announced yesterday. The secretary of labor has power under the law to admit otherwise inadmissible aliens under such conditions as it sees fit, but it has been used only in emergencies. Crowded conditions on ships on which immigrants are being held in New York and Boston, Mr. Henning said, have created such an emergency.

Gloom Turned to Joy
BOSTON, June 10.—A quick transition from gloom and despondency to hope and joy took place last night among the 1000 immigrants on the Canopic at Commonwealth pier, when they learned that in all probability they would be released today or tomorrow and would be free to go to their destinations in this country.

In point of fact all preparations had been made for them at Deer Island, where they were to have been taken held until they could be deported to Italy and Portugal. There are about 120 Portuguese on board the Canopic from St. Michael, while all the others are Italians. Of the 1190 who were on board about 1000 remain.

The others were released under the new quota law. About 45 were released Wednesday.

The United States will spend $225,000 on the development of the port and harbor of New York.

ALASKAN CHIEF TO LIVE AS AMERICAN

SITKA, Alaska, June 10.—Jackson Aank-Hootz, traditional chief of Alaska natives, on April 15 took the traditional pole from the yard of his home here, declared he no longer will follow the odd customs of his forefathers and announced that in the future he will be a plain American citizen.

A former declaration was issued early in April by the old chief. It read: "On April 15, 1921, according to my own convictions, I desire to take down my tribal emblems, which are in front of my house. My purpose is to live as an American citizen. "I wish every young man to see that I have started now in a new life as an American citizen. I have dropped all my old customs as I think they were a great burden to me."

Adventures of The Twins

IN A THRICE THEY WERE SAILING EARTHWARD UNDER MR. SPRINKLE-BLOW'S PARACHUTE

When Jack Frost had left the star that the Weatherman lived on, to follow Old Man Flood to the earth and repair his damage, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow turned to Nancy and Nick. "Now, my dears," said he, "I think that we may rest assured that things will be all right with our friends. Butler Beaver can finish his dam, which, to tell you the truth, he should have had all ready in the fall; Mark Muskrat can finish his house above high-water mark, and Marty Mink can have his fishing party on the ice without being carried out to sea. Suppose we all go down to the earth ourselves now, and see how things are coming on. I've been so busy up here in the sky getting enough rain barreled up for spring showers, and sunbeams put away for days when Mr. Sun is lazy, and various other things, that really I've had to neglect the earth creatures. You can help me a great deal. I'm sure, being able to understand what they say. And having your Magic Green Shoes in going to be the best

OSTRICH LAYS EGGS FOR BIG CIRCUS

Students of zoology are again asked to consider the question, "Which came first, the ostrich or the egg?" In the case of Merza, giant female ostrich and one of the latest acquisitions of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, she and a five-pound egg came to the circus at one and the same time. Merza, who was born on the Arabian desert, arrived from an Atlantic seaport last week in a crate partly filled with hay. When the box was opened the egg was found in the straw.

On the day Merza joined the white tops, Gladys, a clown goose, presented her master, Sid LaRue, with a very respectable offering. This she laid on the top of a trunk belonging to one of the equestriennes. The accompanying picture shows the trio comparing the relative sizes of the trophies. Gladys, the goose, is one of a hundred and more trained actors that range in size from white mice to wonderful elephants, tigers and lions. Merza is of a band of 16 ostriches that will, on circus day, be seen in a corral in the center of the mammoth menagerie tent. Not counting the gacaffes—of which there are eight on exhibition—the ostriches possess the most unique necks in the zoo. Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined exhibit in this city, Friday, June 24.

help of all, for weathermakers like myself are likely to have to go anywhere, you never can tell; and although my umbrella, when open, will float all three of us down 'to the ground, it is only strong enough for one when we wish to return here. Yes, your shoes are very valuable." Mr. Sprinkle-Blow opened his umbrella, then taking Nancy's hand, walked to the edge of the star. "Now, my dear, you take Nick's hand and we'll all jump together. One for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go!"

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

George H. Cadman of Westford reported last night to the police that he was struck by an automobile while driving on Westford street.

Cadman states that his automobile was near Howard street when two little boys ran out from the sidewalk directly in front of the machine. One got across safely to the opposite side, but the other, the Plummer boy, tried to run back and was knocked down. Cadman picked up the lad and took him to St. John's hospital where the authorities reported him as apparently uninjured.

DYNAMITE BOMB WRECKS HOME

Attempts Made to Kill Officers Active in Enforcement of Prohibition Laws

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, June 10.—Attempts were made by bomb-throwers today to kill Russell Bowers, prosecuting attorney of Tuscarawas county and L. O. Haug, safety director of Dover, both of whom have been active in enforcement of the prohibition laws.

A dynamite bomb was thrown on the front porch of the Bowers home in New Philadelphia early today from a passing automobile. It exploded, blowing the porch to splinters and wrecking the house, but no one was injured. A dynamite bomb also was thrown on the porch of the Haug home, in the nearby town of Dover at about the same time, but the fuse did not burn and the bomb failed to explode.

Authorities immediately started search, trailing the automobile, and arrested Nick Nigro and his son, Chauncey, as suspects. The son was found hiding under the porch of the Nigro home in Dover.

SHADY DANCES TABOOED

We note that several Massachusetts cities have recently taken a decided stand against various dances said to be objectionable from a moral or suggestive standpoint. School superintendents in various towns and cities have come out strongly against certain social activities in which the pupils engage in indiscriminate dancing. In several cities, the results have been so alarming that school dances have been forbidden, or else placed under the strictest supervision. The graduation orators in a number of instances have felt called upon to caution the students against over-indulgence in dancing, joy riding in automobiles, attending too many picture shows and, on the part of the girls, devoting too much time to "dolling up and bobbing the hair."

This advice might with justice be applied to a great many of the high school students in every city. It is just what is necessary and timely. But in the city of Cambridge this city council has adopted a code of dance rules to be enforced with the greatest strictness. It forbids moonlight and shadow dancing and all forms of improper gliding and, of course, the new-fangled dances that are tabooed in every respectable dance hall.

Here is the dance code adopted by Cambridge:

1. Improper dancing will not be tolerated. Persons so indulging will be immediately ejected.
  2. No moonlight or shadow lighting effects will be permitted. The hall must remain fully lighted.
  3. Smoking is prohibited except in rooms reserved for smoking.
  4. Gentlemen must not enter the ladies' room or parlors.
  5. No dance shall continue after 2 o'clock a. m. unless by written permission of the mayor, and not later than 11:30 p. m. on Saturday.
  6. One or more police officers shall be in attendance at all public dances, and a patrol selected by the chief of police or his representative shall also be in attendance. Parties conducting dance or entertainment shall be obliged to pay for the services of the police officers and marion.
  7. Pass-out checks are not to be issued.
  8. Minors under 17 years of age shall not be admitted to halls unless accompanied by parent or guardian. This shall be given special attention by the management and police officers will be arrested for "disturbing a public assembly."
  9. All emergency exits from hall, including the entries and stairways of such exits, will be properly lighted while the audience is in the hall.
  10. All orchestras are directed to obey the orders of the representative of the mayor to cease playing should conditions so justify.
- We commend this dance ordinance to the earnest attention of our police department with the hope that some similar action may be taken to prevent improper conduct in our public dance halls. The presence of a police officer and a patrol at every dance would make such affairs a little more expensive, but the end to be attained would justify the increased outlay.

JOHN GOLDEN'S DEATH

In the death of John Golden, the president of the United Textile Workers of America, the cause of labor has lost a wise and conservative leader. Mr. Golden was well known in Lowell as he appeared here to promote industrial peace on many occasions when other leaders were agitating for a strike in the local mills. He believed in conciliation whenever that was feasible and he believed also, that the strikers usually suffer most whenever they quit work, either as a protest against working conditions, against a cut-down in wages or a refusal of their demand for higher wages. Mr. Golden was respected by the managers of the textile industries for the reason that they could sit down with him and talk things over in a matter-of-fact way, thus clearing away misunderstandings that led to wrong conclusions and hasty action. In fact most of the labor troubles that have occurred in this and other cities, might have been avoided with advantage if the advice of Mr. Golden had been followed in every particular. When, however, a strike was once declared, Mr. Golden stood out for the best terms obtainable. The one thing in which his leadership excelled, however, was his conservatism and his readiness at all times to recognize the just claims of the other side as well as to advance those of the unions he represented. He was opposed utterly in every form of radicalism and in this respect, his influence operated as a sort of safety valve for the organizations he represented. The radicals frequently opposed Mr. Golden, but the cool-headed members of the unions realized that Golden was right and usually followed his wise counsel.

GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES

During the fiscal year which will end on June 30 the federal government will have spent almost five and a half billion dollars for operating expenses. When the Republicans assumed control of the government they made great pretensions of economy, but while they cut down expenses on paper and sliced appropriations estimates framed by the democratic government, the actual expenditures have remained unimpaired. Appropriations for times of peace. There is a further danger that as was stated in a conference with the Senate, the arms appropriation bill, the expenses of the government for the fiscal year of 1922 may reach six billions. One of the senators expressed the opinion that if the military budget is increased over those of the present year, the total might reach seven billions.

If this extravagance continues, the people will have to combine to elect the party which made such extravagant promises and fell down so woefully in its performance. Even President Harding's interest in economy has been of a very vague and indefinite character. He has spoken of "frugality" but he has not pointed out just where the plucking knife should be applied. The leadership in Congress is equally without an economic policy. The fact seems to be that the Republicans have been out of office so long that having been returned to control of the government, they are not in a mood to practice economy. They want all they can get and to place as many of their friends as possible in good positions. That is not the way to secure a reduction in the running expenses of the government.

REJECTS MINORITY RULE

The New York World notes what it deems to be a strange state of affairs in the fact that Ulster, Ireland, has opened a parliament of its own, whereas in 1914 it was opposed to home rule in any form, and while the southern provinces refuse to take the form of home rule offered them by the government, they were outspoken for home rule in 1914.

The New York paper evidently misunderstands the situation in Ireland. The nationalist party in 1914 wanted home rule for all of Ireland, and that was granted. The minority refused to accept any form of home rule in which it would have to join with the majority. The government as a result withdrew the general home rule act and passed what is known as "the partition act," which gives Ulster a parliament of its own and the other three provinces representing 50 per cent. of the population, also a separate parliament. The trouble comes in the fact that while these two parliaments, one representing 20 per cent. of the people and the other 50 per cent., are permitted to establish a central council in Dublin, the Ulster body would have an equal voice in that council with that of the southern provinces. This amounts to a minority rule, and very properly the nationalists refused from the beginning to have any part in it. It should not be necessary to state that it was the government's betrayal of the Irish people that caused the rebellion of 1916 and all the trouble that has since occurred in Ireland, although British authorities blame the Sinn Fein, which in this case represents the majority of the Irish people. Had home rule been granted in any acceptable form in 1915 or 1916 there would have been no trouble in Ireland. Now, however, the people want independence and the Irish question will never be settled until they get it.

INSURANCE COMPANIES' GRAFT

That is an alarming state of affairs brought to light by the Lockwood investigating committee of New York in which it has been discovered that certain insurance companies and banks compelled borrowers who wanted money to erect buildings, to purchase undesirable property as a condition precedent to the granting of the loans. This is but one form of graft unveiled by the recent investigation of these companies, chiefly the fire insurance corporations.

It is further learned that these companies as a result of exposure in secret investigations for the benefit of their stockholders and at the expense of the policy holders, are to institute reforms which will net over $120,000,000. When the corruption in the New York building trades was exposed, a great howl was raised and the public seemed to be shocked; but these revelations relative to the fire insurance graft, go to show that grafting seems to be the fixed condition and honesty the exception in New York.

SPECULATING LEGISLATORS

Thus far, it seems, nothing has been heard of the action, if any, to be taken against the 1915 legislators who borrowed money to purchase railroad stock in anticipation of a boost in price to be brought about by a measure to be enacted by the assistance and largely through the influence of their speculation. Their action was simply scandalous and it allowed to go unpunished, then an impetus will have been given to a form of grafting which, while different from the acceptance of bribes, is yet fully as corrupt for the reason that a person seeking gain in this form is likely to vote for his own interests rather than that of his constituents whose interests he is elected to serve. The mild rebuke of the legislature of the present year was but the outer coating of a general whitewash. If there is no statute in existence under which that kind of business can be punished, there should be one enacted as soon as possible.

GALLIVAN WOULD STOP FIGHT

Congressman Gallivan is in favor of stopping the Dempsey-Carpenter fight until Congress passes the bonus bill for the soldiers. If he insists upon his resolution having that end in view, he will seriously embarrass many of the Republicans who have already bought tickets for the fight and who do not want to go on record as favoring this contest in preference to prompt action in favor of the boys who did real fighting overseas.

Although they may never again get their names in the newspapers, it is safe to predict lives of more than usual usefulness for two Lowell girls, Miss Doris Sanborn and Miss Doris Brown, winners of first and second prizes in Lowell seminary's broad-making contest.

It is pleasant to learn that one of the prizes at the Textile Workers' contest has been won by a Chinaman, but it will not be so agreeable if the prize comes to us sometime that the prize of our textile export trade in China has been taken away from us.

Harry Smith, released from jail where he had been placed for breaking speed laws, jumps into a car and freewheels the same way all over again with a determination to protect him from arrest. Still we wonder at crime!

It is not proper to prejudice a case before a jury, but it is an encouraging assurance that at least an authority responsible for a death in the street is to face a jury of his peers.

The old adage might be changed to read, "There are none so blind as those who will not see illegal joinings." Oh, for somebody to put something more than O in the First Street Oval.

Some Mementos

An old yokel saw a motor car for the first time in his life. It came running up the main street and disappeared in a cloud of dust. "Well," said the yokel, "the horses must have hit him a good spot when they got loose from that carriage!"

Safety First Ink

"Have you heard of the new ink that has been invented for writing purposes?" said Jones to Robinson the other day. "No," said Robinson. "What about it?" "Why," was the reply. "It's an absolute safeguard against a breach of promise action, for the ink is guaranteed to fade completely away within three weeks, leaving the page as blank as though no writing had ever been upon it."

Had Give Away

"Where is my umbrella?" fumed father, just as he was ready to rush out to the city. "Somebody's taken it," little Willie looked up at his dad. "I spect Mr. Smith took it, father," he said. Mabel, the beautiful grown-up daughter of the house, blushed crimson. "O, Willie," she cried, "how can you say such a thing?" "Well, sis," returned Willie, "when he was saying good-night to you last night I heard him say, 'Mabel, dear, I'm-I'm going to steal just now.'"

Smarter Than You!

Michael Nolan, former sailor and lumberjack, now holds the championship as the most intelligent man in the United States. Mike, 43 years old, is a student at the University of Washington. In the army's "Alpha" intelligence test, he made a perfect score of 212 points in 13 minutes. The former champion, who is now knocked out by Mike's powerful brain, is a Yale professor. His record was 207 points in 17 minutes. The average score for army officers and university students in the "Alpha" test is only 135. For diversion, Mike likes to be asked the meaning of such words as ageratum, chamfer, alshim, gulmpie, simony, clestogamous and rocco. Knockers will begin telling you about what became of the smartest boy they went to school with. But Mike, you'll observe, is not a boy. He's in the forties—when real intelligence and wisdom begin. No doubt, some one soon will take the brain championship from him, but isn't his feat and his lumberjack origin an amazing evidence of the fact that you can't tell where you'll find well-informed intelligence? Some of the heaviest and most serious thinking these days is done by men with dinnerpails. Trouble with Mike, he lives ahead of his time. If he could live in Lowell 10,000 years from now and make a similar record, he'd get more attention than the Dempsey-Carpenter bout—that is, if they have such things in the year 11221.

No Place For Fear

Most every day brings some grave situation. Not to be feared, but faced. Alternatives offer, in state and in nation. Not to be feared, but faced. Dilemmas confront us each hour of the day. Presenting both right and erroneous ways. These quandaries shouldn't depress us, for they Aren't to be feared, but faced. Each day of our life brings a problem or two. Not to be feared, but solved. We've off with the old one, let's on with the new. Not to be feared, but solved. The puzzles involving the right and the wrong. The question how not to be weak, but be strong. These "rums" in life's school-day come troubling all. Not to be feared, but solved. Each day in the field there arises a foe. Not to be feared, but fought. He's not to be dodged or avoided, you know. Not to be feared, but fought. There's nothing on earth unmistakably right. That we may maintain without strenuous fight. Introduced we find always iniquitous might. Not to be feared, but fought. —BY STRICKLAND GILLIAN in "Farm Life"

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Evidently the members of the municipal council have again forgotten the petition that was filed with them last year and which called for the widening of Allen street at its junction with Hall street. During the past few years no less than three petitions have been filed with the city fathers for a change to make the corner less dangerous, and every time a view of the premises was taken, yet the papers were pigeon-holed to be soon forgotten. That corner is considered one of the most dangerous in the city as it is a spot where children are constantly passing or playing, and the view is obstructed by the high brick wall of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. The residents of the district as well as many others who have access through the thoroughfare feel that something should be done to safeguard the lives of people who use that street or who live in that immediate neighborhood. It is understood that another movement is now on foot in that locality and that another effort will be made to have the corner widened to prevent fatal accidents.

This Little Chess Marvel Is Very Eager to Meet the Polish Prodigy

CELIA NIEMARK

WEST AUSTINTOWN, O., June 10.—Samuel Rzeszewski, nine-year-old Polish chess wonder now visiting in America, had best look to his laurels. Celia Niemark, a little bobbed-haired, ginger-haired farmer girl, "6 years old, got on seven," living just outside of West Austintown, is right likely to prove a stumbling block in Samuel's victorious chess career.

And nobody, it seems, should know better about Celia than her dad. He's been a chess enthusiast for years.

Dad and Celia's 22-year-old brother David went to Youngstown, O., where Samuel Rzeszewski was playing in that city. David played him and lost. When Celia heard the family talking about Samuel and his wonderful playing she took her first interest in chess.

"This little lady," her dad, Samuel Niemark, will tell you "just comes by chess naturally. She doesn't get it out of a book—her remarkable game comes out of her head."

Commencement by Barton Braley

Yes, the world will doubt them, Confident and young, Laugh to hear their challenge, Jubilantly hung; Yet their wildest fancies Shall in time be truth, Gangway for the dreamers! Clear the road for Youth!

Call them "green" and "callow," Fresh from college halls, Yet their hopes shall batter down Mammon's thickest walls;

Doubt nor fear shall halt them, Naught on earth shall stay, Lords of all the future— Youth is on the way!!

Sneer and sneer, oh graybeards, In your power and pride; You who mock these dreamers, Shall be thrust aside. Out of school and college Engage for the fray, Come the future captains— Youth is on the way! (Copyright, 1921, by The Lowell Sun.)

when they use the chess book moves.

The chess book Mrs. Niemark was referring to was given to Celia by Frank H. Patrick of Urbana, O., chess champion of Ohio for several years. He had played Celia, and a short time after sent the book through the mails. On the inside cover is written:

"To Celia Niemark, the best lady chess player I have ever met over the board."

News of Celia's cleverness at chess spread in to the Youngstown Chess and Checker club and she was invited to join. Now that club calls her "The Queen of the Chess Board."

And why not? She has beaten practically every member of the club— young and old.

Asked if she was willing to challenge Rzeszewski, Celia appeared a bit too shy to answer. But her brother broke in:

"You can say that she challenges any girl chess player in America, right now. And she is eager to meet the Polish boy, too. She may not be able to meet him this year, but next—well, wait and see."

UNEMPLOYED TO MARCH ON CITY HALL

SPRINGFIELD, June 10.—Labor union leaders said last night that plans are under way for the mobilization of Springfield's army of unemployed, numbering about 26,000 persons, at Hampden park for a parade to city hall, an early date. A unionist said that the parade the men would carry the $5 poll tax bills and demand of the mayor a chance to pay their taxes.

He said the parade would be peaceable affair, but would give the city officials an object lesson and show what the jobless are up against.

To every user of gasoline— an important announcement

From now on you can buy Tydol Economy Gasoline at no higher price than other leading brands of gasoline

FROM a "new" gasoline, to the "leading" gasoline in the greatest motoring section of America—that is the five-year record of Tydol.

From Philadelphia to Boston—in practically every city, town and village—on every important road and thoroughfare—Tydol pumps are supplying motorists day and night.

As the thousands of Tydol users—motorists who will "fill up" with nothing but Tydol—have multiplied, doubled and trebled again, we have been able to perfect a distributing system that has brought greater economies. Economies in deliveries, economies in storage, economies in getting Tydol to your city and to your dealer—these have been possible as the network of Tydol distributing stations has spread over New England, New York, New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania.

So to-day we are pleased to announce a reduction in the price of Tydol. From now on you can get Tydol Economy Gasoline at no higher price than other leading brands of gasoline.

A greater economy than ever

No change will be made in the quality of Tydol. Tydol remains the Economy Gasoline. Tydol vaporizes fast. It burns up clean, reducing carbon, and preventing contamination of lubricating oil.

Fill up with Tydol. Look for the orange and black sign to-day.

The World's Richest Bride Says She Will Have a Very Simple Wedding

JUST A QUIET WEDDING

THEN A HONEYMOON IN THE EAST

AND PROBABLY A TRIP TO EUROPE

LOLITA ARMOUR, WHO SPURNS EXTRAVAGANCE

By R. J. GIBBONS

CHICAGO, June 8.—"I want my marriage to be a lucky one."

This, says Miss Lolita Armour, the world's richest bride, is her reason for wishing a quiet wedding with comparatively little expense and no elaborate gowns. She is the daughter of J. Ogden Armour, the multimillionaire packer. On June 18 she will become the bride of John J. Mitchell, Jr.

A few years ago she was a crippled child. A surgeon's skill saved her from going through life under this handicap.

At Melody farm, Lake Forest, a wealthy suburb near here, she told me that her trousseau would be made of "left-overs," and that her wedding gown would be just a "simple little thing of white velvet," costing less than $500.

"I believe that extravagance is sinful," she went on. "To me it's perfectly absurd for girls to squander their money on an extravagant bridal attire. And no good luck comes from it, either.

"My whole outfit will be very inexpensive. Moreover, I'm not going to wear a single jewel—that is, unless I have to.

"And, oh yes! I will wear a little cap fashioned from lace from my mother's wedding gown. It has no intrinsic value; just sentiment, that's all.

"You see, marriage is a serious affair, and people should realize that it is. Why should I lavish money on my-

MRS. HARDING HAS GAINED 18 POUNDS

I Firmly Believe Tanlac Has Added Years to My Life, Says Arlington Woman

"If the people of Massachusetts, who have suffered and tried medicines until they have become down-hearted and discouraged, only knew what Tanlac has done for me they would lose no time in getting a bottle," said Mrs. C. F. Harding, a fashionable dressmaker, residing at 200 Broadway, Arlington, Mass., while discussing the merits of the medicine, a few days ago.

On being asked if she was willing for her statement to be published, Mrs. Harding said: "Yes, indeed, and you may tell them I firmly believe Tanlac has added years to my life. For a number of years I had been in an awful run-down condition. I fell off in weight from one hundred thirty to six pounds to less than a hundred and had little hope of living much longer.

"My appetite was entirely gone and I was so weak I couldn't get around at all. Everything was done for me. It seems possible to do for a person, as I was under treatment six different times, but with it all I kept getting worse. My nerves were completely shattered, and I would have such weak, dizzy spells that things turned black before me and I would faint dead away.

"My heart would sometimes palpitate like it was trying to come out through my chest. The least little noise would almost set me wild and I could hardly sleep at all. For more than a year I was unable to turn my hands to a thing in the way of work and, as nothing helped me, I became very depressed and thought my days on earth were about over.

"For five years I lived in Seattle, Washington, and while there I found out about Tanlac and began taking it, and in a short time I felt a change for the better. This was over a year ago and since then I have taken ten bottles with the result that I have gained 35 pounds and am now back to my normal weight of one hundred and thirty-five pounds.

"Tanic has evidently given me a new lease on life for I feel more like a girl than I do a woman of 66. I eat just anything I want, sleep like a child every night, and have so much strength and energy that I am not satisfied unless I am busy at work. Tanlac certainly did bring happiness to our home and I thank goodness that it ever came my way. If I could express in words what I really feel everybody would know what a grand medicine it is.

Tanic is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright and Bitterlich, druggists, by Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

GOV. COX REFUSES TO REINSTATE POLICE

BOSTON, June 10.—Gov. Cox yesterday declined to take any action toward reinstatement of Boston policemen who went out on strike in September, 1919. In a letter to Michael Lynch, who as a representative of the former officers has twice written the governor in their behalf, the governor said the responsibility for the conduct of the police department was vested in the police commissioner and that he saw no occasion for action on his part.

Radio-active substances cause the appearance of colors in glass and porcelain.

Self, when there is so much misery in the world? The money could be used for better purposes. And then you wear a wedding gown only once.

"Starting out sanely, a man and wife have a better chance. If I were to lavish a small fortune on my trousseau and gown, memory would bring only regrets to me later on.

"It would be pure selfishness and nothing else. I don't believe selfish people are ever lucky, or happy. And that's what I want to be—happy. Dress easily is a good way to begin."

And so this girl with multiplying millions, who could buy all the finery of Paris if she chose, has disappointed those Chicagoans who were looking forward to a marriage amid regal splendor.

Only intimate friends—about 60 of them—are to be invited to the wedding. It'll be held indoors at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

After that there'll be a two weeks' honeymoon in the east and probably a trip to Europe.

Then this couple is coming back to Chicago to "keep house."

heart of Paris, on the city's greatest thoroughfare, but uncovered, and as I stood I saw a French officer approach. Arrived at the tomb he stood at attention, then the smart salute to this lowly, unknown poilu, and finally came his cap. For a soldier to uncover is beyond regulations. This probably unconscious act of a living soldier of France shows the depth of feeling that France has for this hero who died unknown. He typifies, not only the unknown dead, but that great host of a million who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War.

Seeing Slights in Paris

The visit to the tomb of the Unknown Dead proved an appropriate beginning for a day spent at the Pantheon de la Guerre, and at the Salon of Modern French Artists, where the annual exhibition is in progress. The feature of the Pantheon is a tremendously realistic, very gripping and extremely creditable panorama of the Great War. To each of the Allies is given a space and therein is portrayed a few of the great leaders and the arms of the service which helped to win the war. Very naturally and very appropriately nearly one-half is given over to the French. One recognizes the Tiger, old Clemenceau, a commanding figure of a man without the trappings of the military to give him presence. Papa Joffre, Marshal Foch and Petain, each of the great French chieftains have their place. To their rear may be seen the massed columns of infantry, artillery and cavalry and in along all of the work that had the power to grip and wring one's heart. Near the entrance, in a place of honor worthily bestowed, one performance is halted before a heroic bronze. It is a French soldier, struggling through barbed wire, holding aloft the tattered tri-color. In his face is written the indomitable spirit of the soldiers of France. Near at hand is a group, the central figure of which is Georges Clemenceau. In simple homely attire, with clenched hands, he faces the enemy and about him are grouped the French poilus, with every man's face intent on that grim face of the Tiger. The artist has made the figure of the war premier breathe an almost fierce power and undaunted courage. It is a masterpiece, the work of Sicard.

American Group Disappointing

I confess to a sense of disappointment in the American grouping. The only figures which have action and the power to move are those of former President Roosevelt, and a young West Point cadet. Ex-President Wilson stands significantly alone, and holds in his hand a paper. I came away with a mild wonder in my mind if the artist had not wielded his brush with sarcastic intent. The figure suggested a writer, not a warrior-leader, and it seemed to me to be coldly aloof. The French do not love Wilson.

The Salon this year has an inevitable war flavor. Many of the sculptors find their inspiration in the great events of the tumultuous years of the great struggle, and many of the paintings have the same motif. The French temperament, artistic, poetic, loving beautiful symbols, is finding expression in bronze and marble which is sure to add, in the years to come, powerful attraction for the visitor to France who finds joy and inspiration in memorials of a great age of sacrifice of valor.

It would be quite impossible to calculate all of the work that had the power to grip and wring one's heart.

Wall Paper

IT'S COMING INTO ITS OWN AGAIN

There has been an enthusiastic revival of scenic wall papers.

Those beautiful designs from the manufacturers across the Atlantic are slowly but surely impressing themselves on the public mind.

And in the latest issues of the exclusive magazines of the home that have appeared within the past few weeks, several articles with these beautiful papers as their leading theme.

Among the latest scenic effects is a very distinctive design by Strahan. The pattern repeats in the length of each strip, as do ordinary scenic, but four strips, each 29 inches wide, are required to show the whole patterns in its entire width.

We have this pattern mounted for your inspection. Ask to see Strahan's scenic.

No Joy in Life of Wife Who Is "Bird in a Gilded Cage"

ALICE CALHOUN. HER HUSBAND NEGLECTS HER. THAT'S HARD TO BELIEVE. BUT HERE IS ONLY A MOVIE HUSBAND.

By JAMES W. DEAN
Suits and satins and pearls had she. Her husband surrounded her with all the luxuries that wealth can buy. But she lived as a bird in gilded cage. For affection is dearer to woman than all the things that money can buy. Neglected, she sought her own his wife, having been repulsed by her. The husband returned home to find her in the crook's embrace. The crook was holding her to keep her from screaming. The husband did not understand.

Husband was about to shoot crook. Another man entered. Life had been saved from lynching years before by the husband. The lynchers were going to kill him because he had shot a man who had stolen his wife.

"Do not close the doors on your wife's future happiness." Those were the very words the husband had addressed to the man when he saved him.

Husband and wife became reconciled. The crook reformed, probably because of his near approach to death. This is the story of "Closed Doors," just completed by Vitaphone with Alice Calhoun as star.

The plot of the rich husband neglecting his home and wife to gain greater wealth is not uncommon in the movies. But neither is it uncommon in life.

And there are husbands who bore their wives to extinction by being too attentive. It would seem that the logical plan to achieve conjugal contentment would be for each husband to ask his wife how many of his waking hours he should spend in her company and arrange his business affairs accordingly.

Alice Calhoun at present is one of the busiest stars in screenland. She just completed "Peggy Puts It Over," and immediately started work on another production.

Hypnotic Movies

A world motive, hypnotism, is the basis of a forthcoming series of comedies to be released by Educational. They will feature Dr. J. Robert Pauline, who played the part of an hypnotist detective on the American and European stage.

Arthur H. Reeve, detective fiction writer, will write the scenarios. The first two will be called "Spooking Spooks" and "Fixing Fakers."

Dorothy Mackrell will be leading woman in the comedies. Her place in the "Torchy" comedies will be taken by Betty Carpenter.

In the Starlight

William Fox will film "Nero" in the studios of an Italian company.

SEC. DAVIS SAYS LABOR UNIONS MUST REMAIN

PHILADELPHIA, June 10—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, addressing the National Hardwood Lumber association, in convention here yesterday, warned against "efforts on the part of big business to aggress with unions." He outlined the reversal in industrial conditions in the past few years and observed that in the inevitable readjustment "the farmer was the first hit and he should have been the last."

"Labor unions," he declared, "are an organic growth of the times. If you smash them you will have in their place, secret radical organizations which lead directly to the revolutionary spirit which is unsettling Europe."

"This is no day for the loafer. The man who does not work should receive no pay. I mean the rich loafer as well as the poor ones. The loafer is a thief and worse, for you can put the thief in prison when he steals your money, but the shirker steals your money and you do nothing. The time is here when the labor union must say, 'We will not work with the shirker, who is robbing his employer and who is robbing all of us.' The unions should either fine or fire the loafers. If they do so, the time will come when employers will demand of every employee a union card."

"Let the employer be fair to his employees and let the employees give an honest day's work. We are all too liable to think privately that harmony between the employer and the worker is an ideal impossible of attainment, but I do not agree with that. Let the employee bring clean hands to his work and use his head as well as his hands."

Referring to the reversal in industrial conditions, the secretary said: "The way to get back to prosperity is to work back."

KING AND QUEEN TO BE CROWNED SEPT. 24

ALBA JULIA, Transylvania, June 10. King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania will be crowned here Sept. 24. Plans are now being made for the erection of a church for use in the religious service of the coronation and in memory of the great battles which brought Greater Rumania into being. The church, it is expected, will serve for the crowning of all future kings of Rumania.

On the outskirts of this little Saxon town, where 500 years ago Michael the Brave, Rumania's George Washington, scored a victory over the Hungarians, a monumental arch, with reliefs commemorating events in Rumanian history, will be erected.

On the coronation day, after a service at the new church, at which all the Rumanian bishops will be present, the king and queen, crowned, will proceed to the new triumphal arch, where there will be a great military pageant.

In the afternoon and evening there will be gala entertainments, including a banquet in the hall in which the union of Transylvania with Rumania was proclaimed in December, 1918.

The next day the sovereigns will arrive in Bucharest and make a triumphal entry into the Rumanian capital. Here also an arch will be erected to commemorate the day for future generations.

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie have occupied the Rumanian throne nearly seven years, having succeeded the late King Carol in October of 1914; but on account of the war they never were formally crowned.

It is expected that soon after the coronation the king and queen will visit the United States.

Scenes With "Wallop" Are the Ones That Score "Knock-out"

BETTY ROSS CLARK, SHE'S HEROINE OF "MOTHER O' MINE." SHE SAVES HER SWEETHEART FROM THE ELECTRIC CHAIR. HE'S INNOCENT, OF COURSE.

PRISCILLA DEAN, HER MIDDLE NAME PROBABLY IS "PEP." HER PICTURES ARE FULL OF ACTION. LAST ONE "REPUTATION." NEXT ONE, "CONFLICT."

BY JAMES W. DEAN
Photoplays are like prize-fighters. They must be good in an all-around way or they must carry a knockout. Otherwise those who pay to see them are disappointed.

Movie fans often forget the name of the picture and the name of the actors soon after leaving the theatre. This is speaking of the ordinary picture, seen day in and day out.

But they talk for days about the big moment of the play. Even a race between auto and train still produces a thrill, as it has for years. Other stand-by thrillers are train wrecks, auto spills, airplane stunts and horse races.

An innocent man is in the electric chair. Guards are putting on the electrodes. A party with proof of his innocence is racing to the prison in an auto.

A storm has destroyed telephone communication. It also impedes progress of the auto.

The district attorney is in the machine. As the machine passes an electrical power station in rushes in and has all the switches pulled.

The prison is without current. The innocent man is saved by an eyeflash, as it were.

This is the "punch" in "Mother O' Mine," a recent release. It grips the audience. It is remembered after the fade-out.

Putting the switch at the power house, miles from the jail, is a novelty. A less ingenious director would have had the rescuing party rush in with a reprieve at the last moment. That is the stereotyped way of saving a man from the electric chair.

The innocent man is willing to die to save the honor of his mother. He is saved by his sweetheart. This is not so unusual in movies.

Lloyd Hughes is the innocent man. Betty Ross Clark, the sweetheart. Claire McDowell, the mother. Betty Blythe is a villainess.

Then D. W. signed Sheldon Lewis. Lewis had to cancel a vaudeville engagement with his wife, Virginia Pearson, to accept the part.

Griffith used the same method of "try outs" in selecting the cast for "Dream Street."

BELFAST, June 10.—A police sergeant and two constables were shot and severely wounded in a street here this afternoon. ## Hired Men to Beat Husband

Continued

This statement today to a representative of the Associated Press on the train that was carrying him, Mrs. Kaber and her daughter, Miss Marian McArdle, back to Cleveland.

Chief Christensen, however, denied a report that the two men had been ordered to pose as ghosts. He also stated that Mrs. Kaber had not implicated her daughter.

Report Men Hired as Ghosts

NEW YORK, June 10.—Dan F. Kaber, wealthy Lakewood publisher, met death after attacking two foreigners engaged by Mrs. Kaber to pose as spirits and frighten him into a better attitude toward her, according to a statement which the New York Evening World today says Chief of Police Christensen of Lakewood, obtained from Mrs. Kaber here.

The newspaper quotes Chief Christensen as saying that Mrs. Kaber had consulted a woman medium for advice as to how to change her husband's attitude toward her. His surly manner after an illness was said to have occasioned the visit to the medium.

By advice of this medium, Mrs. Kaber was said to have employed two foreigners to appear at her husband's bedside in the night as ghosts and, as she expressed it, to try and shake a little civility into him.

Aroused from his slumber, Mr. Kaber attacked the two men and was stabbed to death in the struggle.

According to the newspaper, Chief Christensen said Mrs. Kaber had declared that she had refused to pay the two foreigners when they reappeared after the funeral, asserting they had not fulfilled the role of ghosts as she had intended and that she would not involve herself by paying for murder.

Mrs. Kaber then was said to have fled to New York to escape the foreigners without advising the Cleveland police for fear of involving herself.

Carp's Cook Knows Cauliflower—He Wears It

By ALICE ROHE
MANHATTAN, June 10.—What is the most important factor in preparing Georges Carpentier to meet Jack Dempsey?

Henri Carpentier will tell you: "The cook—of course!"

You see Henri is the cook—the only prize fighting cook in captivity. Henri says his two cauliflower ears have nothing to do with his interest in vegetables. He was a cook before he became a prizefighter.

"It is like this," said Henri, stopping in the preparation of a leg of lamb. "A fighter can't be too particular about what he eats—and who but a fighter, who is a cook, can better take care of Monsieur Georges?"

"I see everything he eats is prepared—just so. My cooking for Monsieur Georges is plain home cooking—such as a prize-fighting gentleman should eat. I bring him strength—you will see."

Henri pointed to the roast and gave a demonstration of why his meats are better than anyone's else.

"Regardez-look! I open the door and make the roast so I conserve all the rich juices. In hotels-plum—they give Monsieur Georges on light and one dark meat a day—all cooked to a tenderness—ah—parfaitement. As for vegetables—there is the grand secret—one must guard well the cooking for the man who is building up his strength."

"I give Monsieur Georges also his favorite dessert—apple pie."

Henri speaks only French, but he is not overlooking every chance to learn English.

"I began to cook as an apprentice at 13," he continued. "Then I was at Rumplemeyer's, the Ellysée hotel and the Majestic. While I was a cook Charlie Labadie, who was in the same hotel, and I used to go to a gym. Then we both took up prize-fighting. I'm not through fighting because I am a cook—oh, no, indeed!"

He "Trebles"

Henri, it may be seen, not only "doubles in brass" but trebles, for in his spare time in Paris he runs a laundry, too. But as for cooking for Monsieur Georges—that is a service of love for the profession."

The high chef to Carpentier is 30, muscular, heavy set, with thick brown hair and brown eyes. When he places the home-cooked roast before the European heavyweight champion he is a spotless figure in high white cook's cap and white apron.

So particular is he in the preparation of Carpentier's food that he brought enough special implements of his trade from Paris to furnish an ordinary kitchen.

Owing to the cook shortage in America, Henri's fame as chef de luxe has caused many a longing eye to glance his way.

But—Henri never!—says the chef-plum—laundry owner, could all the dollars of America lure him from the sacred duty of preparing "just so" the food which is to maintain the glory of the French prize ring.

"A man properly nourished can vanquish anything," said Chef Carpentier. So it is all up to Henri.

Corbett Calls Dempsey Most Nervous Champion

BY DEAN SNYDER
Between now and the afternoon of July 2 Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier will undergo a terrific mental strain.

This is the "No Man's Land" of anxiety through which all champions and challengers pass.

It is going to affect Dempsey far more than the Frenchman, thinks James C. Corbett, ex-heavyweight champion.

"Dempsey is the most nervous heavyweight champion I ever knew," says Corbett.

And Corbett, the conqueror of the great John L. Sullivan, has been there all come and go for the past 20 years.

"Dempsey is the hunted now instead of the hunter as at Toledo two years ago."

"He has everything at stake."

"Carpentier, who risks nothing, is a cool, calculating fellow. He impresses me as a better waiter than Dempsey. He'll be spending the time between now and the time of the fight mapping out plans of attack on the champion."

"Of the old champions, I think Jeffries and Willard were the most nervous during the training periods."

They were big fellows and couldn't dazzle their friends by fancy dancing with sparring partners.

"Sullivan was the aggressive nervous type. He was a hard worker and carried a braggadoocio mannerism of supreme confidence."

"Fitzsimmons and Johnson were nervous types. They never showed a 'training grinch' outwardly. They covered up by kidding their friends."

"I was always nervous during the long training days. But that tension left me the minute I climbed into the ring for the fight. An electric wave seemed to pass over me and left me cool and calm."

Dempsey All Nerves

"Dempsey enters the ring for his fights with a morose look on his face. This is intensified by the black beard which he always grows prior to a battle."

"Carpentier wears more of a searching, expectant, cat-like expression on his face when he climbs between the ropes. The Frenchman is all business."

"Of course nobody knows what tactics Carpentier will adopt against Dempsey."

"There is only one way to fight a man who hits with Dempsey's steam. It is the hit-and-get-away style until the opening comes where you can put all your force into your knockout punch."

"And Carpentier can hit, too, as his record shows."

Charley Sharkey Stages "Comeback" In Pitching South Ends to Victory Over Gillespies

TONIGHT'S GAME

The South Ends got back into their old stride last night in the game with the Gillespies on the South end and thanks to the come-back of Charley Sharkey as a pitcher, the "southerners" were able to hold the visiting machine men a 4-2 defeat. It was an exceptionally well played game, although lacking the excitement and spectacular features of the Broadway-C.N.A.C. tie of the evening before.

Sharkey hasn't done any pitching to speak of for a number of years but he demonstrated last evening that the old wing still has a lot of good base-left. He found it a little difficult to locate the plate at first but once he got into his stride he moved down the opposing batters with ease. His arm was perhaps not the reliable factor that it was in years past, but his experience and inside knowledge of the game brought him over the rough places triumphantly.

Sammy Poultier pitched for the Gillespies, but didn't seem to be able to shake off the hoodoo of hard luck that has followed him this season. He pitched good ball, got fairly good support, but somehow or other the breaks went the opposite way.

The playing field presented a most satisfactory appearance last evening. The big trees in left field had been the subject of much discussion and agitation since the opening of the season was removed and the park department had extended the wire along the third base line clear up to the slope of the common, thus giving the field plenty of room in which the work.

It looked for a time as though there would be no game last night, owing to a heavy shower that pelted down around 6 o'clock, but as soon as the rain let up the sun smiled again and the field was in great condition when Empire Morgan started activities.

Neither team scored in the first inning, but in the second the Gillespies got two runs, and Morgan and O'Hare were passed. Morgan stole third and came home when Dillon threw wild to third. O'Hare went to second on the play and sped home when Poultier hit hard to the outfield. Thus, Sam not only pitched a good game, but sent in one of his team's two runs.

There was nothing doing until the fourth when the South Ends succeeded in sending three tallies across. A combination of three hits and an error gave Wally Lyons' men the game and just to make it sure they sent across another in the sixth. The Gillespies were silent after their outburst in the second inning, although in their half Notes of the game: Centralville and Highland Day-ights tonight at 6. If the Centralville lose the South Ends go into the lead.

The park department certainly did a great job in left field. When a ball is hit there now the fielder has all the room in the world to go after it.

The idea of extending the wire keeping the crowd back right up to the concrete sidewalk on the slope of the common is an excellent one. Now if the police officers will keep the crowd inside the line everything will be to the merry.

The sixth week of the season is nearly over. But there's a long road to go.

Hart and Morgan both did good jobs last night, although some of the players disputed Morgan's callings of balls and strikes at times.

Charley Sharkey's great pitching was the talk of the town last night. Since being appointed to the Lowell police force several years ago, Sharkey has not played much baseball, except on an occasional game, with the local teams. Last night he took the mound with all of his old time confidence and cunning, and at times he had his opponents "breaking their backs" in a little endeavor to connect. A few years ago no southpaw in this vicinity had a thing on the sore-shouldered heavy.

JACK RAPER'S DOPE ON THE BIG BOUT

Everybody's calling Carpentier the man to beat. That's what they used to call Ponce.

Jack McAuliffe, a champion of years ago, looked over Carpentier and then remarked: "He has a nasty look. Most of the fighters nowadays have a doughy look."

From what we can learn from the newspapers the busier man in the Carpentier camp is the cook.

Our own idea of a prizefighter's menu is that it should be selected from this list:

Fish, plike preferred—fine for road work.

Round steak.

Duck.

Beets.

Cauliflower.

For dessert—Pound cake with whipped cream, sponge cake, punch or claret.

Jack Dempsey is doing light work at Atlantic City. That's what Thomas A. Edison is doing at Orange, N. J.

They're beginning to talk now about who should be the referee. We have no candidate for the job, but we think J. J. Morgan should be holding the sticks.

Carpentier is picking up English and Dempsey is building a training arena to pick up a few dollars.

A prizefight ring is the only known ring that has corners.

THE INSIDER

New York fans haven't given up the idea of a local world series this fall.

Ed Hippenmans has convinced a lot of ivories that he is their master during his stay in this country.

They are calling the Baltimore Orioles the non-stop team.

Failure of enough entries to broeze in for the King Albert Cup races has caused the postponement of the yacht classic.

The quilt sign hangs out so often at Carpentier's barbed wire castle that the place resembles a hospital zone.

No racing season is complete until you hear the cheers.

That always greet the grand old vet of racing tracks—Pop Geers.

The pawn shops will do a big business after July 2.

Connie Mack doesn't care how poorly a ball player plays so long as he tries.

SPORTS AT OUTING

The result of the sporting events at the annual joint outing of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill Commercial colleges, which was held at the Lake Park yesterday, was as follows:

Girls 50 yard dash, Marion Morrison of Lowell; ball throwing contest, Miss Sullivan of Lowell; boys 100 yard dash, first, Harry Sullivan; second, Henry Sullivan; and third, Ted Roberge. In a baseball game Lowell was successful over Haverhill, 12 to 1, and the bowling contest went to Lawrence.

DEMPSEY HAS DAY OFF

Champion Enjoyed 24 Hours of Rest—Motors to Camden, N. J.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10.—Jack Dempsey today is enjoying a full 24 hours of rest. The heavyweight champion becoming weary of the camp routine with boxing off the program, decided to take a day off and motor over to Camden, N. J., 40 miles distant, to bring back his Belgian police dog, which was left in the care of a veterinary a week ago.

Dempsey began to display signs of nervousness and irritability as a result of the enforced layoff from boxing due to the cashing of his left eye and Manager Kearns thought a day of rest from the confining camp routine might be beneficial to him.

Kearns has planned to have Dempsey face his sparring partners today, but he has decided that Sunday will be soon enough. If the champion's damaged eye is not sufficiently healed at that time no boxing will be done until Monday, Kearns said.

New Sparring Partner

Battling Glee, a negro heavyweight from Memphis, Tenn., joined the champion's staff of sparring partners today. Glee comes with a reputation of being one of the most aggressive and trickiest gymnasium boxers in the game, capable of making a sensational showing when not engaged in actual combat.

Dempsey has a good line on Carpentier's style of fighting as a result of a talk he had with a newspaper writer, an old time friend, who has just arrived spending a week at the French boxer's camp.

The champion seemed particularly interested to learn whether Carpentier fought from a crouch or a standing up position and the position from which he started his dangerous right hand punch.

"Is he easy to hit? If I can hit him, I can beat him," was Dempsey's parting shot.

Someone shot a report at camp yesterday that Dempsey intended to be married after his victory over Carpentier would retire from the ring as his intended bride was opposed to boxing. The champion issued a denial as did Manager Kearns.

"When I get through with Carpentier, I won't lose any time going home to the folks in Salt Lake City. Instead of getting married," Dempsey said, "I've already arranged for transportation on the first train leaving for the west after the match."

PUEBLO, Colo., June 10.—Arrival of federal troops to aid the national guard and Colorado rangers, has marked a new step in the restoration of normal conditions after this city's most disastrous flood.

Army trucks and mule trains accompanied by a corps of laborers, are expected to facilitate the task of removing bodies and debris before a danger of disease.

Martial law regulations have been made more stringent. Passengers are not permitted to leave trains without a military pass.

Colonel P. J. Hancock, adjutant says it probably will be two weeks before martial law will be ended. Public utilities will be in full operation before the troops are withdrawn.

All relief work, reconstruction and rehabilitation of business and industry has been placed in the hands of the Red Cross by the civilian committee.

Rapid progress has been made in clearing the streets and business houses. Several stores filled with water as late as Sunday are now doing business. Railroad tracks have been dug out from under mud and passengers are being taken out of the city by train daily.

The death list, compiled from the morgues, was 47 today, with 130 names on the official list of missing persons.

GETS BELATED DEGREE

Tech Graduate Awarded Degree for Course Completed 45 Years Ago

BOSTON, June 10.—A degree for a course completed 45 years ago was awarded Everett F. Hapgood by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology today. Hapgood completed his course with the class of 1876 with the exception of a required thesis, lack of which prevented him from being graduated at that time. He submitted the thesis recently, however, and today received his belated Bachelor of Science degree.

The graduating class, numbering 637, was the largest in the history of the institute. No honorary degrees were conferred. Of the graduates 534 received the degree of Bachelor of Science; 95 became Masters of Science, and seven were awarded the degree of Ph.D.

RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

Resolution Asking U. S. to Act To Be Presented to A. F. of L. Convention

Also Calls for Withdrawal of British Troops From Ireland and Repayment of Loan

DENVER, Colo., June 10.—Immediate recognition of the Irish republic, withdrawal of the British troops from Ireland and repayment by Great Britain of the nine billion dollars loaned by the United States, is demanded in the resolution tentatively drafted by Irish sympathizers to be submitted to the convention of the American Federation of Labor here next week.

This resolution, it was learned today, has been decided upon at a meeting of delegates headed by Peter J. Brady of New York.

The Irish sympathizers will ask the Federation to call upon President Harding to communicate immediately a message to Congress urging recognition of the Irish republic and formally protesting against the alleged "barbarous warfare" being carried on by British troops in Ireland. Repayment of the English loan is asked on the ground that the British government is using the money to maintain soldiers to suppress Ireland, and "other small nations" and to carry out a great naval expansion program.

"Approximately 95 per cent. of the delegates to the convention are Irish sympathizers," said Mr. Brady, who asserted that support to the resolution had been pledged by a large majority.

Elimination of jurisdictional and inter-union strikes was the main issue before the convention of the Federation today. Resolutions were presented endorsing the work of the national board of jurisdictional awards, which has been successful in settling a large number of jurisdictional disputes in the building trades during the last year.

Should the convention endorse this arbitration body, labor leaders said, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, which has defied a decision of the board, will be compelled to accept the award handed down against it in its controversy with the Sheet Metal Workers. In this dispute the board decreed that sheet metal workers were entitled to do the installation of metal frames and fixtures in buildings.

William L. Hutchison, president of the Carpenters and Joiners, claims that

Rose Warren Gets Six Months in Jail—Dewitt Mosely Fined

Rose Warren appeared in police court today charged with improper conduct and drunkenness. Officer Cooney told of finding the defendant about 1:30 a. m. Sunday, in a room of a Worthen street lodging house where the other occupants were 12 men. Other officers delivered similar testimony, some of it of the most sordid description.

Grover Warren, the woman's husband, took the stand and said that he had seen her on the street with different men, and had seen her go into several houses, sometimes remaining all night. Married in 1917, the couple have not lived together for nearly four years, said the witness.

A finding of guilty was made on both counts. On the charge of improper conduct a six months' house of correction sentence was imposed, while the drunkenness case was filed.

FRACTURED HIS LEG

SLIDING FOR THIRD

While sliding for third base in a game where the married men and the single men of the Crescent Hill association, Thomas Conlon, residing at 516 Lakeview avenue, sustained a fracture of the leg just above the ankle. He was taken to the Lowell Corporation hospital in the automobile of Elmer Leduc. The game was being played at the ball grounds located on Alken avenue, near the Brant line. The accident occurred during the final inning of the game, at about 5 o'clock last evening.

His organization is entitled to do this work and will disregard the decision. The position taken by the carpenters has been declared by John Donnan, president of the building trades department, a menace to the successful operation of the national board. He urged the convention to take action maintaining that the elimination of the inter-union controversies was necessary to stabilizing the building industry.

JOHN J. WALKER BURIED

At the church a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock by Rev. Francis L. Shea, assisted by Rev. Dr. D. J. Kelleher as deacon and Rev. John Hogan as sub-deacon. ## 80,000 Greeks Massed for Battle

It is estimated that 80,000 Greek troops are available for this struggle, while the Turks have about 60,000 effectives between Brusa and Smyrna. British supplies are being given the Greeks, but it is understood the British will not take an active part in the offensive. King Constantine of Greece will leave Athens on Saturday for Smyrna with a number of government officials and it is presumed that nominally at least, he will be in command of the Greek attack on the nationalists' position.

FEAR WATER IN NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

In order that it may have some guarantee that water will not flow into the new high school building during the summer months before the sewer now under construction in French and Kirk streets is completed, the high school building commission waited upon the municipal council in the mayor's reception room this noon and through its chairman, Dr. John H. Lambert, presented in detail conditions now confronting the contractor who is erecting the building.

Dr. Lambert said that the work of putting the roof on the new building will be delayed unless some provision is made to drain water from it. There will also be a delay in concreting the basement floor of the new building if adequate accommodations for taking care of excess water are not furnished and this, in turn, will delay the installation of considerable equipment. Dr. Lambert explained. He said that he understood the sewer now under process of construction would not be ready until the fall and for that reason the commission wished the municipal council to do something to hurry matters along.

City Engineer Stephen Kearney said that he believed temporary relief could be provided in the form of a drain

STORMY SCENE BEFORE MASTER

D. J. Donahue Denies Lowell Trust Company is Responsible for Delay

There was a scene of summer placidity and quiet in a small room in the Gorham street court house, this morning, in which Charles H. McIntyre sat as a master to hear evidence in a case involving the termination of a trust which controls the ownership of the Associate building. The case has dragged its weary way in the courts and before a master for months. On the bench was the master and beside him a young clerical assistant, cool, collected and plainly bored by the proceedings. The court stenographer, at one side, kept a record of the proceedings. At a long table in front of the bench sat in the order named John M. O'Donoghue, W. A. Hogan, Albert S. Howard and Daniel J. Donahue. Mr. O'Donoghue is counsel for James Coffey, and Mr. Donahue for the Lowell Trust company, both of whom have an interest in the case.

GOOD CROPS THROUGHOUT NEW ENGLAND

WAKEFIELD, June 10.—The apple crop in Maine shows better prospects than that of any other state in the country. Reports to V. A. Sanders, New England statistician of the federal bureau of crop estimates today, placed the Maine condition on June 1 at 58. The next highest state was Washington for which the figure was 52. Among the New England states, New Hampshire ranked next to Maine with a condition of 55, which Mr. Sanders said was somewhat above the average. Other states fell below the average. Vermont being 50, Connecticut 65, Rhode Island 60 and Massachusetts 58.

The New England peach crop would be about two-thirds of normal, reports indicated and the pear crop light. Cape Cod cranberries were damaged about 25 per cent. by frosts in May.

Genoa Club in Tyngsboro Scene of Lively Gathering Today--Industrial School Boys' Picnic

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL BOYS LEAVING ON ANNUAL OUTING

The annual field day and outing of the Lowell Vocational school was held today on the Genoa club grounds in Tyngsboro, the use of which had been given through the kindness of the local council of the Knights of Columbus. The boys assembled at the school at the usual hour, leaving for the grounds shortly before 9 o'clock and going over the road in auto trucks. On arrival at the club grounds a baseball game was started between teams representing the automobile and machine departments. As all other departments had been previously eliminated in preliminary games, the winner of today's game will be given a banner emblematic of the school championship for the present season. The midget teams of the various departments also had their games.

Luncheon had the call at 12 o'clock and after a rest period more baseball games were staged. A series of track events were also held. The boys were divided into two classes—those under and over 115 pounds. Individual prizes were awarded the winners of the various events, while the highest scorer of points was given a cup. The department scoring the greatest total of points was given a championship pennant. The arrangements for the outing were made by Principal Thomas F. Fisher while the athletic program was in charge of John H. Gillick, faculty manager and coach of athletics. Maj. Malby P. Kittredge, physical instructor, and members of the faculty acted as umpire and judges of the various events.

WILL BORROW $20,000

City to Complete Morey School Addition—Automobile for City Engineer

The municipal council at a meeting held early this afternoon voted to borrow $20,000 to complete the construction of the new 11-room addition to the Morey school. The order was introduced at a previous meeting by Commissioner George E. Marchand and has been duly advertised. A portion of the money originally appropriated for the Morey school has been spent for other school construction work and hence, the need for more money. The council directed the city clerk to advertise a requisition instructing the purchasing agent to buy an automobile for the city engineer at a cost not to exceed $150. This matter was brought up at the council's meeting last Tuesday but was defeated by Commissioner Marchand because there was no provision in the vote to have the requisition advertised. However, it was passed unanimously today to be advertised.

A petition of C. E. Ouellette, et al., that Millard street be closed, was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

The petition of Harry L. Gonzales for a license to sell, rent and lease ammunition and gun powder at 10 Appleton street was referred for a hearing June 25.

The claim of Rowena Brown for damages resulting from her falling in Chelmsford street on May 27 was referred to the law department.

A contract between the purchasing agent and the American Tax company for 100,000 gallons, more or less, of refined tar blinder for the use of the street department was approved.

A communication from Charles Stickney relative to street closing was placed on file. After monthly bills had been approved the council adjourned to Tuesday at 10 a. m.

CLOTHESLINE THIEVES

NOT ACTIVE HERE

Rumors of extensive clothesline thefts in the Highlands district and other sections of the city are so much piffle, to judge from the statement today of a high police official of the local department. "There have been no large thefts from clothesline in Lowell for several months," was the statement which came in response to a question as to the basis for the reports. "At that time the same crowd of boys who engineered a number of petty breakers, probably also were responsible for the loss of clothing put out to dry by industrious housewives. But these gangs appear to have been broken up." No announcement of any such thefts as have been described has been made to the press at police headquarters.

The tale set about by some unknown agency relates that a mysterious culprit, who rejoices especially in men's silk shirts and men's expensive underwear, or expensive men's underwear as you like, has been despoiling back yards of the choicest articles of the week's wash. Residents are lamenting, according to this story, their most prized linen, and the police are baffled by the bold invader of backyards. But if this be so, the police have nothing to say about it. And, as has been mentioned, official high police department, stigmatizes the whole conception as nonsense.

With the increased rates now being charged, he doubts if a special train during the week-end would be feasible.

Mayor Thompson said that he had heard of no agitation for more frequent service from Lowell people. He was told that the fare between this city and Salisbury on the railroad was about $2.50.

leading from the present Kirk street sewer and that a guarantee could be obtained from the Locks and Canals saying that that corporation would refrain from sending excess water into the sluiceway near the Merrimack hills which might possibly send water into the high school building. If the Locks & Canals agreed to this, he said, the city would guarantee that no water would get into the basement of the building. Mr. Kearney also said that work on the construction of the new sewer is being speeded up and he had hopes that the job would be completed by September 1.

This satisfied the high school commission and it was decided to make an effort at once to get the guarantee from the Locks and Canals that Mr. Kearney mentioned.

The commission brought up several other matters relative to their finances, one of which was a bill for legal services which the commission had not requested. Mayor Thompson suggested that the matter be put in writing and presented to the council at a later date. The high school commission agreed to do so.

OPEN HOUSE AT AMHERST

Mass. Agricultural College
Celebrates Its Semi-Centennial

Sec. Wallace Speaks on the Problems of the Agriculturist

AMHERST, June 10.—Massachusetts Agricultural college, celebrating its semi-centennial held open house today. The day was set apart as citizens day and representatives of many agricultural and business organizations joined with alumni and undergraduates in the observance. The presentation of an original play, portraying the early days of the college, was one feature of the program.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace spoke of the problems of the agriculturist of today as compared with those of half a century ago. Because of the capital required to carry on (farming nowadays, he said, the matter of financial credit had become one of the most pressing problems.

Describing Massachusetts as one of the great industrial states of the union, Gov. Cox declared that while it was desirable to maintain industrial supremacy the people were coming to see that industrial and commercial progress depended in a large measure on development of agricultural resources.

"We cannot maintain a great army of industrial workers unless we have at hand a sufficient food supply," the governor said.

"It is not a healthy condition when we are obliged to import more than 80 per cent. of the food consumed in Massachusetts. It is not a sound condition when thousands of acres of fertile land lie idle. Much has already been done in building good roads through country districts. Much has been done to give school aid to the small communities. As yet little has been done to secure for farmers the credits which are necessary for their undertakings or to bring to the attention of the farmers the possible benefit that may be derived through a spirit of co-operation."

The development of agriculture in this state since the days of the Pilgrims was outlined by Arthur W. Gilbert, state commissioner of agriculture. Farmers from the Massachusetts hills, along with their brothers from other New England states, he added, had laid the real foundation upon which much of the present great west had been built."

THE FOREST PRINCESS

Lowell Normal School Dramatic Club Scores Big Success in Masque

The excellent acting, aided and abetted by gorgeous costuming, graceful dancing, pleasing music, and a most appropriate background provided by nature itself, combined to make a striking success of "The Forest Princess," a masque presented yesterday afternoon by the dramatic club of the Normal school at the grounds of the institution. The proceeds of the production, which was attended by many local and out-of-town people, some of whom came by automobile from long distances, will go to the dormitory building fund. Misses Helen Hogan and Miriam Miller, of the faculty, directed the piece, while the music was in charge of Miss Inez Field Darnen. The dancing was under the direction also of Miss Miller, and Mrs. Herbert Cumberly and other members of the staff likewise participated in the preparing of the masque.

A cast intelligently chosen and coached gave a most adequate and finished performance. Miss Ruth Walker, in the title role, displayed a notable understanding of the exigencies of pageantry and outdoor histrionism. Possessed of an unusually effective stage presence, and garbed strikingly in a robe of yellow gold and light blue which set off to perfection the red-bronze tones of her beautifully coiffured hair, Miss Walker read her lines understandingly and with a restraint which admirably fitted the part which she assumed.

A very special commendation must be extended to Miss Martha Gallagher, in the difficult part of Swamp Oak, the witch of the forest. The lines of this role require a most excellent reading, and this was given by Miss Gallagher. Applause followed each of her appearances and it was well merited.

As the king, Miss Viola March was the imperial but gracious monarch to the life, while Miss Beatrice Hosmer made a charming consort to his Majesty. Eleanor Sullivan was an interesting Prince Ulric, the heir apparent of a kingdom of dreams and hopes. The haughty Prince Ulric fell to the lot of Miss Mary Balfrey, who carried off the part with a clever representation of the pomposity and snobbery of that well-dressed but not so well-disposed royal young person. The other speaking roles were numerous, as a number of young ladies of the school were seen as the spirits of various trees. They were no less appreciated for their lissom dancing than for the manner in which they recited their lines.

The ensemble, comprising peasants, shepherds, lords and ladies, also delighted the audience with some dainty stepping on the greensward. The well-contrasted costumes lent added effect to this phase of the entertainment.

The story of the piece, which is the work of Constance D'Arcy MacKay, reads of a baby found in the woodland and adopted by the king and queen to be their daughter, and princess of the realm. At the christening, after beneficent dryads have conferred sundry blessings upon the infant, the malevolent Swamp Oak witch, who has not been invited, declares that the beauty of the child shall wax and wane with the moon, and that when that orb is absent from the skies she shall be a palsied and withered crone. The spirit of the Silver Birch removes some of the evil from the curse by stating that it shall end when a prince shall kiss the princess. Again Swamp Oak displays the unpleasantness of her temperament by declaring that this career must be bestowed during the time when the princess takes on the guise of an aged woman.

In the second and third episodes the final ending of Swamp Oak's disagreeable spell is shown. The kind Prince Ulric kisses the princess while her beauty is faded, thus breaking the enchantment, and incidentally winning the royal maiden from his vainglorious rival, Prince Ulric.

Dances of various sorts intersperse the unfolding of the plot. Music for the spectacle was provided by the Normal school orchestra, comprising: Misses Marion Brighton and Christina Macpherson, piano; Miss Madeline Sharkey, first violin; Miss Anna O'Connell, second violin; and Miss Eleanor Ward, cello.

A notable feature of the production was the elocution of the young ladies. In the open air particular pains must be taken to make dialogue audible, and these pains were most intelligently given by each of those who were called upon to deliver lines. Each verse was given slowly and distinctly, albeit with the proper expression and inflection. Many favorable comments were heard on this phase of the acting, which eliminated a disagreeable feature all too common in most amateur productions.

AIRPLANE PICKS UP WINE IN OCEAN

NEW YORK, June 10.—Three thirsty
aviation enthusiasts flew 20 miles out to sea in a seaplane yesterday afternoon and there consumed the contents
of two bottles of sparkling champagne, tossed to them from the deck
of the liner La France, bound for Havre.

They were Andre P. Pilot, New
York broker and sportsman; his friend,
Rene Joubert, and his pilot, John Manners. Their benefactors were Miss Mar-tilla Pilot, sister of the broker, and

Harry Eskine, a friend, who were passengers on La France.
Miss Pilot and Eskine had promised to drop the champagne overboard
if the trio would meet their steamer beyond the three-mile limit. They did better; they circled over the vessel
for 20 miles, alighted among the big swells and picked up the bottles, to which floats had been attached. One bottle was lost.

The score was 1 up.

SACO-LOWELL OUTING

The members of the office force of the Saco-Lowell shops can work when it is time to work and they can enjoy themselves, too. This was proved last evening when a party of young men and women spent a few hours at Canobie lake park. The party left the office of the shops at 5.30 o'clock in automobiles and journeyed to the summer resort, where the first number on the program was a musical supper. Which was enjoyed at the lake restaurant. After the inner man had been looked after the various amusements at the park were taken in and a bowling match between the young men and young women took place. The latter winning by a large margin. It is said, dancing was enjoyed, the young women were treated to ice cream and other good things and then the future trip was made, and today, although a little tired, all who took part were well satisfied with the outing. One member of the party stated today that last evening's affair was one of several that will be held during the summer.

Portuguese Government Sues Pilot

BOSTON, June 10.—The Portuguese government today brought suit in the federal court here against Russell W. Rotch, a New Bedford pilot, for damages of $330,000 alleged to have been caused by the grounding of the Portuguese steamship Sao Vicente in New Bedford harbor last January. The steamer bound from Lisbon carried 247 passengers and was ashore for five days. The libel charges Rotch with negligence in running the steamer at high speed asserting that the weather was clear when the vessel went ashore at noon, Jan. 20. Action was brought by Daniel A. Shea, former assistant United States attorney in behalf of the Portuguese ministry of commerce and of Captain Marino and members of the crew of the Sao Vicente. It is said to be the first action of the kind brought in this country.

Denies Right to Removal

The other motion asks the court to limit the investigation to Mr. Tufts' present term of office and to bar alleged acts committed in previous terms. In his opening statement, Melvin M.

Johnson, counsel for Mr. Tufts, asserted that the proceeding was in the nature of an impeachment and that the object sought by Attorney-General Allen was not to frame an indictment or to lay a charge against Mr. Tufts but to remove him from office on charges made in the information.

"The first five paragraphs," said Mr. Johnson, "charge the respondent with improper conduct in connection with one Barney Barney committed a crime in the Suffolk district for which he was apprehended, tried, convicted, sentenced and imprisoned in that district. He escaped from Suffolk into the northwestern district."

"Mr. Tufts, acting not as district attorney, but as an individual, succeeded in apprehending Barney in the northwestern district and bringing him back through the northern district to the Suffolk district and to the custody of the warden of the state prison from whom he escaped."

"It is charged that the respondent violated the provisions of the so-called true-name-law by registering in a hotel a certain police officer whose name was Edward P. O'Halloran, under the name of 'Thomas A. Fleming.' At the time of the registration, Mr. Tufts was in the company of Officer O'Halloran, endeavoring to apprehend Barney. Mr. Tufts' act in so registering, if proved as alleged, therefore, was an act in his individual capacity and not in his capacity as district attorney."

Mr. Johnson called attention to rumors which he said had been widely circulated, to the effect that one Justice already had expressed an opinion in the case. He characterized it as "insidious propaganda" and declared he did not believe it to be a fact. Counsel then took up charges against

Mr. Tufts alleging unlawful conspiracy to threaten certain persons with indictment for the purpose of fraudulently extorting money. Included in these charges was one in which a road house in Woburn was mentioned in connection with the allegation that certain men who had been guests there had been induced to pay $100,000 to avoid prosecution and publicity. Mr. Johnson characterized many of these paragraphs of the information as so vague that Mr. Tufts "does not know the things with which he is therein charged except that he may be able to guess in a few instances."

"It is evident, however," continued Mr. Johnson, "that some if not most of these paragraphs relate to acts or omissions committed or omitted by Mr. Tufts prior to Nov. 4, 1919, the date upon which he was elected by the people of the northern district to the present office from which it is sought to remove him. It is probable also that other charges contained in these paragraphs relate to acts or omissions on the part of Mr. Tufts which had no relation to his duties as district attorney."

"While counsel appear of record as attorneys for Mr. Tufts, they come into the court in a broader sense representing the voters of the northern district, who by an unprecedented majority, have re-elected Mr. Tufts district attorney," said Mr. Johnson, "it seems to counsel to be his duty and theirs to see to it that the district attorney who has been chosen by the votes of the people shall not be called upon to account for the performance of his duties except by the method pointed out by the people in the constitution of the commonwealth adopted by them."

POLISH WOMEN'S CLUB

First Meeting and Entertainment of Summer Season Held Last Evening

Their first meeting and entertainment of the summer season was held last evening by the Lowell Polish Women's club, with practically the entire membership of thirty in attendance. Miss W. J. Novina-Sroczynska was in charge of the program, which included a number of instrumental selections by an orchestra of high school girls.

MISS W. J. NOVINA-SROCYNSKA

directed by Miss Serena Bartlett, pianist. Miss Elita Thompson gave a group of songs, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to games and dancing. Refreshments were served by Polish girls, in charge of Miss Novina-Sroczynska, who is responsible for the organization of the club and the direction of its many activities. A most successful winter season was experienced by the organization, whose members attended in a body classes in cooking, dress-making, millinery, and other phases of domestic science at the public evening school sessions. Reports were read as to the financial standing and future plans of the club, and the meeting adjourned. Miss Novina-Sroczynska, who leads many Polish activities in this city, is now planning for a class in canning among the younger girls of the Polish group.

HOME BREWING ON WANE

16 Tons of Raisins Used for Purpose in 1919—Demand Now Decreasing

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Home brewers used up more than 16,000 tons of raisins in 1919. W. M. Gillett, president of the California Associated Raisin company, estimated yesterday in giving a senate subcommittee his views on the pending bill to authorize collective bargaining by farmers.

He placed the raisin grape crop of 1919 at 167,000 tons and of 1918 at 182,000 tons, the difference, in his judgment, representing demand from home brewers.

"This demand was now decreasing, he added, the 'hobby' for home brewing apparently having worn itself out to some extent."

SENATE TAKES UP IRISH RECOGNITION RESOLVES

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Resolutions of Senators LaFollette, Wisconsin, and Norris, Nebraska, republicans, proposing American recognition of Irish independence, were taken up yesterday by the senate foreign relations committee and decision was made to hear the authors in executive session.

SOLLEY READMITTED TO BAIL SET AT $5000

BOSTON, June 10.—George W. Solley, convicted of immorality, surrendered himself in the superior criminal court, yesterday, and relieved his bondsman on bail of $10,000. The surety was Samuel Johnson of South Boston, a real estate dealer.

Dist. Atty. Pelletier consented to bail being placed at $5000, and Solley was readmitted to that bail, with Demarest Lloyd and Arthur W. Joslin as sureties. Lloyd swore he was worth $100,000, and Joslin that he was worth $20,000.

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I Can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott of Medina

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big hearted, rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such wonderful healing power as Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all drug stores for 35 cents a large box."

Read this letter, written Feb. 14, 1918, by Mrs. Albert Southcott, of Medina, N. Y. It seems like a miracle, but it is true, every word of it.

I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used my ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

Is it any wonder I am happy?

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:—

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcers. I had tried everything, and nothing helped me from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before. After using just nine dollars worth of the ointment I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never again will I be without Peterson's again."

You may use this to recommend your ointment, if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it. Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MOTORISTS BARRED FROM HIGHWAYS

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 10.—Orders recently issued by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, bar three Lowell motorists from all highways in Massachusetts.

One of these is Joseph W. Achin of 12 Mt. Vernon street, who on May 19 was driving one of the cars which crashed just outside of Lowell, causing the death of Wilfred C. Cognac.

Achin has not had a license to drive, but was operating at the time under the general authority given to any person to drive a car if accompanied by a licensed operator. This right, however, has now been taken away in the case of Achin, and in future he must do his automobiling as merely a passenger.

James W. O'Neil of Charlestown, who was driving the other car involved in the accident, was the holder of a chauffeur's license and this has been taken away from him.

Another unlicensed Lowell motorist who has been forbidden to operate is Louis C. Fisher, who lives at the Y.M.C.A. and who on May 6 was involved in an accident which resulted in the death of James Harold Donaghy.

The third motorist involved in Mr. Goodwin's recent orders is David Brabant of 15 Worthen street, who was convicted in the Lowell court April 6 on a charge of operating so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered. Brabant's registration of his motor-cycle has been taken away, so that neither he nor anyone else can operate it.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Lowell Girl is Vice President of Her Class

Miss Louise H. McKenna of this city is playing a prominent part in the commencement exercises at Trinity college this week inasmuch as she is vice-president of her class. A number of Lowell people are attending the exercises.

The O'Connor auditorium of the college was a scene of great beauty when the senior class held its Class Day exercises at 4.30 Wednesday. The program included a history, essay, poem, prophecy, and was interspersed with songs appropriate to the occasion.

The stage was artistically decorated, the color scheme of blue and white representing the class colors. Hailed in on all sides by beautiful floral pieces, the seniors, eighty in number, dressed in white and each holding an American Beauty rose, presented a picture of loveliness as they sat on the stage.

One of the most charming events of the program was the daisy chain of white and yellow daisies which was held by the sophomores as an arch above the seniors as they passed out of the hall on their way to the Avon-tine Hill on the campus where, according to tradition, they were planted and an oration delivered by one of the seniors.

The program of the day closed with a banquet in the evening, at which a large number of the alumnae was present.

President, Ellen M. Devitt of Cleveland, Ohio; vice-president, Louise H. McKenna of Lowell, Mass.; secretary, Dorothy Dusseldorf of Brooklyn, N. Y.

FORTUNE SEEKERS ARE GATHERING FOR DASH

EDMONTON, Alta., June 10.—Fortune seekers from all parts of Canada and various parts of the United States are gathering for their dash into the far north oil and mineral fields when navigation opens about the middle of June.

Edmonton, Fort McMurray and Peace river crossing, the latter two gateways into the Mackenzie river basin oil fields, are showing signs of great activity with large fleets of river steamers and gasoline boats getting ready for the short summer transportation season.

Edmonton railroad yards are jamming through freight for north points and both Fort McMurray and Peace river crossing are experiencing unprecedented prosperity and hustle, all coming from the first wave of the oil boom.

The little town of Fort McMurray has already doubled its population since last fall and with the opening of navigation it is expected to reach four times its previous size. Many new buildings are being erected, while along the banks of the river, boats, scows and lumber craft are being constructed.

Peace River Crossing also is garnering its share of the rush. This town is the temporary headquarters of the government parties going into the north country this year in addition to oil prospectors. Ten government parties are getting ready at Peace River or have already taken the field from this point, including four topographical, three geological and one astronomical survey parties. Another government party will make an exhaustive report of the possibilities of the new oil fields.

River men say that they will be able to handle all freight offered for northern streams and solved the problem of low water which threatened to tie up migration to their Mackenzie fields.

In the meantime the activity at Fort McMurray and Peace River Crossing is growing in intensity daily. Every train to the north is crowded and travellers from both points say that accommodations are at a premium. One party leaving here for Fort McMurray took along their own bedding and shelter tents, reports being that they would be unable to obtain them on arrival. River craft are taking the water daily at both these points. That dominion authorities anticipate some difficulty with parties of "Chochakoes" or newcomers, in the country is evident from the stringent regulations governing entry into the new lands.

At all police points manned by the Royal Northwest mounted police, oil seekers and others are compelled to show their entry permit. These permits are not issued unless the applicants satisfy the police patrols, composed of hardened "mushers" and "sour-doughs" that they are physically capable of enduring hardships, are properly equipped for a long journey and are assured of being able to return to civilization at the end of the season's work. Failing in this they must show that they have a grub stake sufficient for a full 12 months or that they have the necessary orders on the trading posts already established to carry them through for a year's supply of food.

Thus far few of those applying for permits have been refused by police officials.

Later on, when the real rush begins, police officials say, considerable weeding out will have to be done.

The 16-mile portage between Fort Fitzgerald and Fort Smith is expected to show considerable congestion when the rush starts, old timers say, notwithstanding the presence of 30 teams and several powerful tractors which have been sent to this strip of land to cope with the influx.

The two natural routes leading to Fort Norman fields are via Peace River Crossing and Fort McMurray. There are two other routes, however, which would land the travellers in the new fields from six weeks to two months earlier than by either the Peace or McMurray lines, but both these routes call for long portages and considerable outfit.

LAST TRIBUTE TO NOTED AVIATRIX

NEW YORK, June 10.—To the drone of airplane motors overhead, the police department yesterday paid its last respects to Miss Laura Bromwell, police reserve aviatix who was killed last week at Mitchell field, while seeking to establish a new record for looping the loop.

All the honors of a police officer were accorded the young reserve captain, by whose courage fellow members in the department so often had been thrilled.

After the service in a private chapel, the body was carried in a long cortege to the Pennsylvania station, where it was sent to Toledo, the home of Miss Bromwell's sister, for burial.

Eleven thousand new books were published in Great Britain last year.

WAS BORN IN ARSENAL

BOSTON, June 10.—The birth in the United States arsenal at Watertown of Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., who was killed at Indianapolis yesterday, may be said to have been in keeping with his career through life as a fighter. He attended grammar school until he was 16, and then went with his father to San Diego, Cal., where he obtained work as a track walker. A roundhouse fight was the nightly program of the trackwalkers in those days and the future colonel gave a good account of himself.

At the age of 12 he made another cross-country jump to Springfield, where at 16 he became foreman of a factory. He studied to fit himself for the naval academy and passed the mental examinations, but was six months over the age limit. Still resolved to be a trained seaman, he entered the Massachusetts Nautical training school, completed a three-year course in less than a year and at 18 was assigned to the ship Enterprise and made a trip to Japan. Later on another voyage to Japan he led his life in fighting his way through oil flames to save a comrade who was asleep. From that time he was known to officers and crew as the "Battling third mate."

After six years at sea he returned to Springfield. He went to work for a packing field and a year later was made general superintendent. The firm had been in the hands of receivers and Galbraith who had been especially assigned to put the plant on an efficient basis was credited by the directors with having saved $100,000 a year without decreasing production.

His crest as commander of the American Legion was expressed in an address at the City club here last year in the words: "One America for Americans; let the rest get out."

INCUBATORS INCREASE SUPPLY OF PHEASANTS

MARSHFIELD, June 10.—Incubators are being used by the division of fisheries and game of the state department of conservation to provide sport for the hunters and food for the people.

On a farm here pheasants, which in recent years have been growing scarce, have been hatched in large numbers by machine and are being cared for in steam heated brooders until they are strong enough to shift for themselves. Then they will be turned loose in various sections of the state. Experiments to ascertain the feasibility of raising pheasants by artificial means, have been underway here for the past two years and this year the work was started in earnest. About 7500 eggs, some obtained from the station's brood stock and others from private dealers, were placed in the incubators at various intervals. In the course of time 3359 chicks were hatched and transferred to brooders. As they gain strength they are gradually moved from one house to another, of lower temperature until finally they reach a pen without any artificial heat.

To overcome the familiarity with pheasants developed during the 1910's or two weeks in the brooding houses the last pen is trimmed thickly with small trees and heaps of boughs to provide hiding places. On being introduced into this pen, officials say, the young birds show no inclination whatever to take to the underbrush, but after a few days they learn to work their way into the brush, to take cover when startled and to roost at night. About five weeks is required for the birds to become properly feathered ready to take their chances in the woods against hunters. The stocking of the woods together with the natural spread of the bird in a few years, officials believe, will go a long way toward meeting the shortage of fowl for human consumption in this state. It is estimated that shippers in the south and west now send $30,000,000 worth of poultry into Massachusetts annually.

PEACE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, June 10.—Peace between Rumania and Soviet Russia seems assured, says Take Jonesco, Rumanian minister of foreign affairs. "We do not meddle in internal Russian affairs," he said, "any more than we would permit any meddling in ours. The Soviets reiterate that they have no intention of attacking us. I am bound to believe them and I know that we shall not attack."

"According to our information there are fewer Bolshevik troops on our frontier than there were during the winter. Likewise we have truly friendly, fraternal relations with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Greece. With Poland we are in agreement to maintain peace on our eastern frontier. We are opposed to the return of the Hapsburgs which would be a great danger for the peace of Europe."

Economic conditions in Rumania, he said, were improving, the finances were in good condition and the future seemed favorable.

PEGGY JOYCE AND HUSBAND

$1,000,000 LOVE GIFTS

Rich Husband Fights to Get Presents Back From Peggy Joyce

By R. H. WHITNEY
NEW YORK, June 9.—Would you hand a woman who did not love you one hundred thousand dollars in cash for a single kiss?

Would you, this woman's husband, hand her a glittering diamond worth $30,000 in exchange for an eight-minute conversation with her?

Would you present her with a $25,000 pearl necklace in return for her smiles?

All of these things, and many more, J. Stanley Joyce, Chicago and New York multi-millionaire, swears he did in an effort to make his young and pretty wife, Peggy Hopkins, love him. Now, he is suing her for divorce, naming eight co-respondents.

In return, Peggy—whom Joyce asserts started life as a telephone operator in Denver—says: "He followed me about and I couldn't get rid of him, so I decided the easiest way was to marry him." She counter-claims for divorce, alleges he was "cruel and inhuman" and asks $10,000 a month alimony.

So disturbed is Joyce over this charge that he has introduced hundreds of telegrams and letters from Peggy which are supposed to prove that she did the "following" and not he.

"Peggy," he says, "wished an emerald ring."

So she wired Joyce, then in Chicago, as follows:

"I love you—Peggy."

The telegram was sent at noon, Dec. 2, 1919, 52 days before she married him, and was followed 20 minutes later with another, as follows:

"The $12,000 ring is gone. They are holding a $25,000 ring for you. Love—Peggy."

She got the ring, says Joyce. Joyce swears that during the 11 months, embracing the time of his courtship and brief marital adventure, that he knew Peggy, he was forced to spend $1,395,314.32 on her.

Here is the story of Peggy's life, as Joyce details it in the court's records:

Many Affairs

To begin with, he says, Peggy is not a distinguished stage star, but has passed progressively from telephone operator, to manicure, to chorus girl, to wife by turns of three rich men.

Everett A. Archibald of Denver, Philbrick Hopkins of Washington, and Joyce himself.

Joyce met Peggy on June 21, 1919, as she was concluding an engagement at the Woods theatre, Chicago. Five days later she came to New York and they began to correspond via telegraph.

Shortly after Peggy hurried to Colorado Springs, passing through Chicago. They met and he followed her. While roaming the mountains of Colorado, he says, he confessed his love, was accepted, and handed her $5000 in cash to meet "pressing debts."

"Great Trouble"

Returning quickly to New York, she wired him to join her as she was in "great trouble." Reaching New York, she says she told him she had contracted with the Shuberts, did not wish to act for them, and added it would cost her $25,000 to break her contract. He drew a check, he swears, and paid it.

Their marriage was then set for Nov. 3, 1919, without his knowing of her previous marital experiences.

Joyce married Peggy on Jan. 23, 1920, and promptly paid $10,000 down and assumed obligations for another $10,000 to buy her a Florida home.

Incidentally, he paid her lawyer $5000 for bills she had contracted.

On May 29, 1920, they sailed for Europe.

Arriving in Paris, Peggy began to pout, Joyce says, and he appeased her by presenting her with additional jewelry, fast motors and finally one gift of jewelry costing $100,000. Peggy, he explains, purchased this jewelry without his knowledge and the bills were sent to him for payment.

A Mutual Friend

On Aug. 14, 1920, Joyce was summoned to America. Before leaving, he deposited letters of credit for $15,000 at a Paris bank. It was on Oct. 21, he swears, that he received proof of Peggy's fidelity. She was in Paris; he in Chicago—and a mutual friend was involved.

The next adventure, Joyce swears, was with a certain duke, a Parisian dandy and member of the fast Parisian set. It began at London and continued across the channel.

In Paris, recites Joyce, Peggy frequently dined at the duke's apartments in a hotel.

In July of that year, she had met another celebrity at L'Abbay restaurant, Montmartre. Paris, Joyce says, he was with her at the time, but she fled to introduce him. He was not, she swears, part.

The supreme effrontery of their whole marital career, Joyce says, came

Lot of Gifts

In this connection Joyce says that Peggy in reality started life with nothing and has "bled me to the tune of over a million and a quarter dollars." Among the jewels he mentions are the following:

Pearl necklace, $225,000.
Marquise diamond ring, $50,000.
Marquise diamond ring, $44,150.
Square diamond ring, $64,500.
Pearl necklace, $18,500.
Emerald and diamond bracelet, $35,000.
Square diamond bracelet, $31,500.
Square emerald bracelet, $19,500.
Square diamond ring, $55,500.
Emerald ring, $25,000.
Pearl necklace, $18,500.
Pearl necklace, $22,500.
The complete list contains more than 100 items and explains that $325,000 was spent for jewelry, and that Joyce still owes $182,565 on other bills that must be paid.

In reply, Peggy denies all her husband's charges, says he "was cruel and inhuman," and on that plea she seeks freedom—with the right to keep his gifts.

Peggy will go from New York to Chicago soon to answer Joyce's charges. Not only will she fight the case and press her demands for $10,000 monthly maintenance, but she will also ask for $100,000 attorneys' fees, according to Louis H. Caldwell, associate of Wemont Kirkland, Peggy's counsel.

Caldwell says she will refute Joyce's charges by giving a strict account of all jewelry he lavished on her. In addition, she says, she intends to offer "indisputable proof which will discredit the stories circulated about her affairs with an alleged coterie of lounge lizards and notorious notables."

ROPES OF PEARL

Fashions in jewelry change. Ropes of pearls once worn in a single strand about the neck now wind several times about the arm.

FAMOUS PALACE OF RECTORS CLOSED

RAGUSA, Dalmatia, June 10.—The famous Palace of Rectors in this ancient fortress city, has been closed to the public. The palace contained many priceless gems of painting and sculpture dating back to the Renaissance.

In one of the anti-Italian demonstrations, soldiers invaded the palace and destroyed practically all of the paintings and sculpture. So much damage was done that now no one is permitted to enter the palace, which formerly was the chief treasure house of the city. Serbian soldiers now stand guard at the entrance and have orders to refuse entrance to anyone not on official business.

In like manner, many of the old relics of Venetian art and culture, which were to be found all along the Dalmatian coast, evidence of former Venetian glory, have been torn down and destroyed.

The late James Gordon Bennett, who is said to have called Ragusa "the garden spot of Europe," was a frequent visitor here, having bought a villa on the island of Lacombe, opposite the town and the site where Richard Coeur-de-Lion was shipwrecked.

A horse and buggy was seen out on the Three notch road last Sunday, and it made one think of old times. The less money a man has the more he'd like to be a philanthropist.

FRANK KNOX DESCRIBES REVERENCE FOR UNKNOWN POILU IN PARIS

This War Memorial Outshines in Popular Esteem the Tomb of Napoleon—American Memorial Disappointing as Compared With Others

Here is another of the letters of Frank Knox of Manchester, N. H., now on a visit to France. He is writing the War Memorials of France and finds the American group very disappointing in an array in which the heroism of France is represented in superb art.

(Special to The Sun)
PARIS, May 15.—For nearly a century the shrine of France has been the tomb of the great Napoleon, in the Invalides. She now has a new shrine before which that of the warrior-emperor loses its appeal. It is robbed of much of its significance and is displaced in the popular affection, reverence and pride. It is the tomb of an unknown soldier, a simple soldier's grave, beneath the flagstones of the lofty arch which commemorates the triumphs of one hundred years ago—the Arc de Triomphe. On the stone which covers the grave is cut the simple but stirring phrase: "Un soldat inconnu. Mort pour la Patrie." An unknown soldier. He died for his country. About three sides of the grave is a bronze barrier, about the height of a man's waist, and on the inside of this bronze railing lean the floral tributes, always fresh, brought hither by comrades in arms, by military organizations, some of whose numbers helped to make up that great role of the unknown dead, and, most touching of all, simple tributes from the homes of the poor and the humble, who gave one of their number to that nameless army that gave even their identity that France might be saved. To the mothers and wives whose sons and husbands went forth to battle, and never returned, to whom is denied the poor solace of knowing where the loved one lies, this unknown soldier who sleeps beneath the Arc de Triomphe is their son, or their husband, and here they come to shed their bitter tears and do homage to his memory. It is a spot more sacred than any other in all France, richer in meaning, more profound in significance. It is approached with bared head. Not a man came near while I stood beside that grave in the very

DOCTORS DEFER VOTE ON USE OF ALCOHOL

BOSTON, June 10.—Action on a resolution defining the attitude of the American Medical Association on the prescription of liquor was postponed until the next annual session yesterday when the house of delegates of the association assembled for the final meeting of its 72nd annual convention.

The house which expressed its approval of "all proper activities of state and federal governments directed to the prevention of disease and the preservation of health," voted to hold the next annual convention in St. Louis and elected Dr. George F. Schwartz of Philadelphia, president for 1922. The liquor question came before the house in the form of a resolution offered by Dr. Victor C. Vaughan of Ann Arbor, Mich. It reiterated and affirmed the judgment of the house in 1917 that the use of alcohol as a beverage is detrimental to human economy and that there is no scientific basis for its use as a food and in the treatment of patients.

The vote on the resolution was a tie, which was broken by Dr. Dwight H. Murray of Syracuse, speaker of the house. After the vote, Dr. A. T. McCormack of Louisville, Ky., who tried to prevent postponement asked immediate action regarding "the prostitution of the privileges of the medical profession" by those who prescribe liquor indiscriminately. The house finally passed a resolution presented by the council on health and public instruction which deplored the reproach that has been brought upon the profession by members who have misused the law concerning prescription of alcohol and which expressed the association's disapproval of the "acceptance of a small minority of the profession of the position of being purveyors of alcoholic beverages."

Resolutions offered by four state medical societies differed in their definitions of "state medicine" and the committee on legislation and public relations, which took them under consideration introduced a supplementary report upon which the approved resolution was based.

In this report also the committee reaffirmed its support of President Harding's policy for reorganizing the public welfare activities of the nation. It recommended that patients suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis be kept in private wards and rooms in the general hospitals of the country, and advocated a survey of the subject of vaccination with a view to educating the public on the question.

ARTIST SHOWS PICTURES OF LOWELL SCENES

The very spirit of industrial Lowell, of the pulsating life that goes on in the big mills as it struggles to play its part in the larger life of the world, its oppressiveness as a great monster that men have chained but failed to fully understand, has been caught and placed on canvas in a picture by John G. Wolcott, a master in one of the city's grammar schools, that is part of an exhibition of the artist's paintings that was opened this afternoon at 115 Nesmith street. The painting gives the artist's impressions of the scene along the bank of the Merrimack as it impressed itself on his consciousness as he viewed it in the light of early morning from Allen street bridge.

There are other pictures in the exhibit that attract and hold attention because of the artistic vision that has conceived them and the skilful handling of technique and coloring. Particularly noticeable is the result of a somewhat daring attempt to paint the figure of a young woman by artificial light. Then there is a well-executed sketch of Christian Hill as seen from the Belvidere shore that shows thoughtful and intelligent handling of the subject. The insight of the appreciative interpreter of nature is shown in Mr. Wolcott's canvases in which flowers are a leading motif.

LETTER CARRIERS' ANNUAL CONVENTION

Plans for the annual convention of the Letter Carriers' association, which will be held in this city next Sunday, have been completed by members of the local branch of the association, Patrick J. Owens, president. It is expected that about 200 delegates from all parts of the state will attend the sessions, which will be held in Odd Fellows' building, Middlesex st. Regular business will be transacted and a delegate to the St. Louis national convention will be elected. Saturday evening a smoker will be held in Odd Fellows' building for the members and visiting delegates.

Large deposits of phosphorus have been discovered on an uninhabited island south of Japan.

THE STRAND

A big picture production invariably draws big audiences, and there is no exception to the rule in connection with the presentation of Mr. George Arliss in "The Devil" at the Strand. Those who have already seen it unhesitatingly pronounce it one of the best of its kind ever shown here. And what makes it all the more enjoyable is the prodigious talent that is given to the opening by Charles Barton, late with the Lowell Players, and Miss Mildred Boudreau. This prodigious talent is an original creation by Resident Manager Samuel Torgan, and adds greatly to the entertainment value of the presentation. Mr. Barton appears as "Catal" and Miss Boudreau as "The Dance of Death." The lavishness of the production, and the strict application as to details, make the picture one of those worthwhile kind that can be appreciated by those who favor the superior grade of motion pictures. Don't miss it.

Corinne Griffith in "It Isn't Being Done This Season" is the other feature, and this offering provides a proper balance and sufficient variety to be especially pleasing. Besides these two specials, there is the usual comedy and a weekly that will surely meet the demands of all patrons. Don't fail to see the program from first to last. You will regret it if you don't. And don't forget that some seats can be had for 10 cents at the matinees and 15 cents at night. It's always cool and comfortable at the Strand.

AT KEITH'S THEATRE

Big Reception Avails Griffith's "Way Down East," Beginning Monday

Next—Sale For Seals Now On

There is every indication that D. W. Griffith's picture of "Way Down East" will be given a hearty reception when it begins its special engagement of one week at the B. F. Keith theatre next Monday afternoon, as the people of Lowell are very much enthused over the coming of the greater production while the mail orders are pouring in fast from the outside towns.

"Way Down East" is an unusual attraction. It has gone over the top as the greatest theatrical sensation in America this season. In all of the large cities and its coming here will be a dramatic treat that will be looked back to with delight for a long time to come.

The fact that the marvelous picture is to be presented in the accompaniment of the same large orchestra that has been furnishing its music all season in Boston and that a special variety of elaborate stage effects are to be used is a feature which has created an added interest in its coming to this city.

After the opening on Monday afternoon two performances will be given each day at 2 and 8 p. m. and it is safe to predict full houses through the entire engagement.

The advance sale for seats for "Way Down East" is now on and mail orders are being cared for when they are accompanied by check or money order plus the necessary war tax.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Mother of Mine" an intensely interesting, human story of modern life with mother love as the dominant theme, is entertaining large audiences at the Merrimack Square theatre. As the feature of the current program, Chira McDowell, a most talented actress, plays the leading role and turns in a characterisation that will not soon be forgotten. Another big feature for the week-end is "Seven Years' Bad Luck," a howling comedy success, starring Mack Sennett. The International News and "Holy Smoke," a short comedy, round out the bill.

Jenny is of the whirlwind order. Other acts on the bill are: Cook & Outman, in songs, and Beatrice Doane, singer.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Marooned Hearts," the National picture, with Conway Tearle in the leading role, opened at the Rialto theatre yesterday afternoon and lived up to all the advance notices. The picture has to do with the reputation of a noted surgeon which is ruined by the whims and follies of a woman. The climax comes when she intercepts a note calling him for an important operation.

In addition to the production, "Marooned Hearts," there is Neil Hart in "A Six Mile House," also a comedy, "In and Out," featuring Monte Banks.

An important product of China is wood oil, which is used as a substitute for linseed oil.

Squares of blue and gold beading give a distinguished air to this snuggly crepe de chine frock which Miss Martha Mansfield, Solonville, wears. Note the sheath of feathers at the side of her smart, small hat.

Leatrice Joy, Goldwyn Pictures (right), also goes in for beads. Dealing on the fall gown is to be very good. Leatrice, however, confines her frock's ornamentation to a chiffon apron, which is elaborate enough in itself.

The fabric medium for the gown is duvetyne. The blouse relies on knife plating for its distinctive touch. It has the much worn round neck and the poplin.

LARCENIES OF $1,900,000

Boston Man Accused of Obtaining Money by False Representation

BOSTON, June 10.—Edward D. Rice, member of a chemical and dyestuffs firm, was placed on trial in superior criminal court here yesterday charged with obtaining $300,000 from two local banking institutions by false representations. It is alleged that Rice misrepresented the financial condition of his company to officials of the National Shawmut bank and the New England Trust Co., from which he obtained large loans.

The indictment contains 22 counts and charges of larcenies aggregating $1,900,000. The larger sum was explained by the renewal of the notes from 1917 until this year. James H. Conner, president of the New England Trust Co., testified that Rice showed him a statement of the firm's business that led him to believe that the company was solvent and upon the strength of it he lent the defendant $60,000. Subsequent loans of $50,000 and $40,000 were made to Rice also.

GREAT DAMAGE CAUSED BY STORM

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, June 10 (by the Associated Press).—A terrific storm in the region about San Miguel, one of the most conspicuous volcanoes of Salvador, has just come to an end after creating much havoc. A flood descending from the volcano destroyed 12 villages and 51 houses in the town of La Trinidad. In San Jorge the San Rafael square was transformed into a lake and houses and trees were carried great distances by the flood. All the crops in the district were destroyed but no lives were lost.

BAYNES TO SUCCEED COMMISSIONER KRAMER

FORD SAYS GANG OF JEWS BACKED NEWBERRY

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Details of the 1918 campaign expenditures in behalf of Senator Newberry engrossed the senate committee hearing Henry Ford's contest against seating the Michigan senator.

The committee also heard at second hand what purported to be Mr. Ford's theory of Senator Newberry's campaign, from Allen Templeman of Detroit.

"Mr. Ford called me in after the election," Mr. Templeman said, "and told me that he believed a gang of Jews had a general conspiracy to control the senate and the government, and that they had backed Newberry. He said that $1,000,000 had been spent in the state to carry the election."

LIVES OF 300 INMATES ENDANGERED BY FIRE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 10.—The lives of approximately 300 women and small children, many of them crippled or ill in bed were endangered by a fire which started in a shed at the state infirmary in Howard last night and caused damage of some $20,000. All inmates were removed, however, without loss of life or serious consequences.

The principal damage by flames was in the children's ward of the institution, which was being remodeled and had not been occupied for several weeks. The institution's fire department, aided by companies from this city and Cranston prevented spread of the fire to the women's wing, which is directly adjoining.

HELD CARNIVAL AND LAWN PARTY

The carnival and lawn party held on the grounds of the Highland Congregational church last evening, was attended by over 300 people. The affair was conducted under the auspices of the Lowell Christian Endeavor society and the receipts, which were very substantial, will be used to defray the expenses of the students at the summer school of the society.

The officers of the evening were: A. Edwin Wells, general manager; Carrie Hedding, Carrie Stewart, Alexander H. L. Ross and Osmond Coburn, assistants. The Lawrence Street P.M. church was in charge of the African dancers.

Teaching Nation's Mothers—Women
Unite to Study How to Rear Babies

CHICAGO, June 10.—Mothers are going to school now so that they will know how to educate their children.

The schools are conducted by the Child Conservation League of America. The mothers' circles meet twice monthly for a study course extending over three years. Textbooks and papers are prepared by specialists on child culture.

The lessons start with the child at birth, show the mother how to stimulate the child's imagination through nature studies, teach psychology of adolescence, sex hygiene, music, art, social service and domestic science.

Mrs. Mary Loux Beckwith is national secretary. Here is an article she writes for the mothers of America.

By MARY LOUX BECKWITH
The Child Conservation League was organized eight years ago to provide a definite course of study in child life, child nurture, education, discipline and welfare.

Today we have organized circles in 29 states with a membership of 32,577 mothers eager to become better equipped to train their children.

The work accomplished has brought inquiries regarding our methods from Norway, Japan, Alaska, South America, Canada, Philippines, Germany, Switzerland and France. Undoubtedly the United States leads in the work of conserving child life.

We are working now for an endowment fund to train mothers who can not afford a membership.

Give improvement logically follow in the wake of instructed mothers. Some of the activities of local circles are story telling hours, kindergarten, public playgrounds with trained supervisors, better movies, public school nurses and the feeding of undernourished children at recesses.

I regard the story telling hour as one of the most important factors in child training. Children are thirsty to learn and can best be reached through their awakening imagination.

At 11 months I received ten thousand letters from mothers. They asked for suggestions on entertainments and games for young people, how to control a daughter's tendency toward loud clothes, how to guide a son vocationally, what to feed an undernourished child—and even the best remedy for thumb sucking.

Improvement in methods of child training naturally is a duty of mothers. The earnestness with which mothers are seeking instruction and guidance in the problems of parenthood is one of the most promising signs of our national life.

CAPT. BELKNAP TELLS STORY OF BARRAGE

Capt. R. R. Belknap, U.S.N., commandant of the War college at Newport, R. I., told the story of "The North Sea Mine Barrage" at a meeting of the Grace Church Men's club last night. The address was illustrated with gasification slides made from photographs taken by the speaker, who was the senior officer of the mine sweeping division of the navy operating in the North Sea during the war.

BAN ON IMMIGRANTS ON LINERS IN PORTS LIFTED

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Immigrants otherwise admissible but brought into the ports of the United States in excess of the quota fixed for June under the percentage immigration restriction law will be allowed to land under removal bond and will be admitted permanently in the July quota, R. J. Manning, assistant secretary of labor, announced yesterday.

The secretary of labor has power under the law to admit otherwise inadmissible aliens under such conditions as it sees fit, but it has been used only in exceptional cases. Crowded conditions on ships on which immigrants are being held in New York and Boston, Mr. Manning said, have created such an emergency.

Glenn Turner to Joy

BOSTON, June 10.—A quick transition from gloom and despondency to hope and joy took place last night among the 100 immigrants on the Canopus at Compton's pier, when they learned that in all probability they would be released today or tomorrow and would be free to go to their destinations in this country. In point of fact all preparations had been made for them at Deer Island, where they were to have been taken until they could be deported to Italy and Portugal. There are about 150 Portuguese on board the Canopus, from St. Michael, and 50 on the development of the port while all the others are Italians. Of the 1100 who were on board about 1000 remain.

Adventures of The Twins

IN A THRICE THEY WERE SAILING EARTHWARD UNDER MR. SPRINKLE-BLOW'S PARACHUTE

When Jack Frost had left the star fishing party on the ice without being that the Weatherman lived on, to follow Old Man Flood to the earth and repair his damage, Mr. Sprinkle-Blow turned to Nancy and Nick. "Now, my dears," said he, "I think that we may rest assured that things will be all right with our friends. Boulder Beaver can fish his dam, which, to tell you the truth, he should have had all ready in the fall; Mark Muekrat can finish his house above high-water mark, and Marty Mink can have his

OSTRICH LAYS EGGS FOR BIG CIRCUS

In the case of Merza, giant female ostrich and one of the latest acquisitions of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, she and a five-pound egg came to the circus at one and the same time. Merza, who was born on the Arabian desert, arrived from an Atlantic seaport last week in a crate partly filled with hay. When the box was opened the egg was found in the joined the white tops. help of all, for weathermakers like myself are likely to have to go anywhere, you never can tell; and although my umbrella, when open, will float all three of us down to the ground, it is only strong enough for one when we wish to return here. Yes, your shoes are very valuable."

Mr. Sprinkle-Blow opened his umbrella, then taking Nancy's hand, walked to the edge of the star. "Now, my dear, you take Nick's hand and we'll all jump together. One for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go!"

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

George H. Cadman of Westford reported last night to the police that he struck Louis Plummer, a boy residing at 270 Thorndike street, while driving on Westford street. Cadman states that his automobile was nearing Howard street when two little boys ran out from the sidewalk directly in front of the machine. One got across safely to the opposite side, but the other, the Plummer boy, tried to run back and was knocked down. Cadman picked up the lad, and took him to St. John's hospital where the authorities reported him as apparently uninjured.

Seapool Arrived Last Night

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 10.—A thick heavy fog prevented the lookout on the steamer Seapool from seeing the iceberg she struck early Wednesday morning. Captain Bartlett, her skipper, said today. The steamer arrived here last night, damaged to some extent, but not enough to prevent her continuing the voyage. She is laid up here for repairs, with her cargo intact.

The steamer was traveling at only half speed when the accident occurred, Captain Bartlett said, but despite the fact that the engines were reversed, the ship hit the iceberg with tremendous force. The berg, he said, towered a hundred feet above the ship. The bow of the Seapool was crumpled in and her forepeak was flooded, but water was made in the foreholds. Her pumps were kept going until she reached this port.

DYNAMITE BOMB WRECKS HOME

Attempts Made to Kill Officers Active in Enforcement of Prohibition Laws

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, June 10.—Attempts were made by bomb-throwers today to kill Russell Bowers, prosecuting attorney of Tuscarawas county and L. O. Haug, safety director of Dover, both of whom have been active in enforcement of the prohibition laws.

A dynamite bomb was thrown on the front porch of the Bowers home in New Philadelphia early today from a passing automobile. It exploded, blowing the porch to splinters and wrecking the house, but no one was injured. A dynamite bomb also was thrown on the porch of the Haug home in the nearby town of Dover at about the same time, but the fuse did not burn and the bomb failed to explode. Authorities immediately started search, trailing the automobile, and arrested Nick Negro and his son, Chauncey, as suspects. The son was found hiding under the porch of the Negro home in Dover.

SHADY DANCES TABOOED

We note that several Massachusetts cities have recently taken a decided stand against various dances said to be objectionable from a moral or social standpoint. School superintendents in various towns and cities have come out strongly against certain social activities in which the pupils engage in nocturnal dancing. In several cities, the results have been so alarming that school dances have been forbidden or else placed under the strictest supervision. The graduation dances in a number of instances have felt called upon to caution the students against over-indulgence in dancing, joy riding in automobiles, attending too many picture shows and, on the part of the girls, devoting too much time to "dressing up and boosting the hair."

This advice might with justice be applied to a great many of the high school students in every city. It is justified, necessary and timely. But in the city of Cambridge the city council has adopted a code of dance rules to be enforced with the greatest strictness. It forbids moonlight and shadow dancing and all forms of improper gliding and, of course, the new-fangled dances that are tabooed in every respectable dance hall.

Here is the dance code adopted by Cambridge:

1. Improper dancing will not be tolerated. Persons so indulging will be immediately ejected.
2. No moonlight or shadow dancing will be permitted. The hall must remain fully lighted.
3. Smoking is prohibited except in rooms reserved for smoking.
4. Gentlemen must not enter the ladies' rooms or parlors.
5. No dance shall continue after 2 o'clock a. m. unless by written permission of the mayor, and not later than 11:30 p. m. on Saturday.
6. One or more police officers shall be in attendance at all public dances, and a matron selected by the chief of police or his representative shall also be in attendance. Parties conducting dance or entertainment shall be obliged to pay for the services of the police officers and matron.
7. Pass-out checks are not to be issued.
8. Minors under 17 years of age shall not be admitted to halls unless accompanied by parent or guardian. This shall be given special attention by the management and police officer.
9. Disorderly persons will be arrested for "disturbing a public assemblage."
10. All emergency exits from hall, including the entries and stairways of such exits, will be properly lighted while the audience is in the hall.
11. All orchestras are directed to obey the orders of the representative of the mayor to cease playing should conditions so justify.

We commend this dance ordinance to the earnest attention of our police department with the hope that some similar action may be taken to prevent improper conduct in our public dance halls. The presence of a police officer and a matron at every dance would make such affairs a little more expensive; but the end to be attained would justify the increased outlay.

JOHN GOLDEN'S DEATH

In the death of John Golden, the president of the United Textile Workers of America, the cause of labor has lost a wise and conservative leader. Mr. Golden was well known in Lowell as he appeared here to promote industrial peace on many occasions when other leaders were agitating for a strike in the local mills. He believed in conciliation whenever that was feasible and he believed also, that the strikers usually suffer most whenever they quit work, either as a protest against working conditions, against a cut-down in wages or a refusal of their demand for higher wages. Mr. Golden was respected by the managers of the textile industries for the reason that they could sit down with him and talk things over in a matter-of-fact way, thus clearing away misunderstandings that led to wrong conclusions and hasty action. In fact most of the labor troubles that have occurred in this and other cities might have been avoided with advantage if the advice of Mr. Golden had been followed in every particular. When, however, a strike was once declared, Mr. Golden stood out for the best terms obtainable. The one thing in which his leadership excelled, however, was his conservatism and his readiness at all times to recognize the just claims of the other side as well as to advance those of the unions he represented. He was opposed utterly to every form of radicalism and in this respect, his influence operated as a sort of safety valve for the organizations he represented. The radicals frequently opposed Mr. Golden, but the heads of the unions, who realized that Golden was right and usually followed his wise counsel.

GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES

During the fiscal year which will end on June 30 the federal government will have spent almost five and a half billion dollars for operating expenses. When the government assumed control of the railroads, they made great pretensions of economy, but when they cut down expenses on paper and short appropriations, the result was that the government was forced to increase its operating expenses for the fiscal year of 1921 to over six billion. One of the senators expressed the opinion that if the congress bill be enacted and the expenses of 1922 be increased over those of the present year, the total might reach seven billion.

If this extravagance continues, the people will simply have to combine to oust the party which made such glaring promises and fell down so woefully in the performance. Even President Harding's interest in economy has been of a very vague and indefinite character. He has spoken of retrenchment but he has not pointed out just where the pruning knife

"Have you heard of the new ink that has been invented for writing purposes?" said Jones to Robinson the other day. "No," said Robinson. "What about it?" "Why," was the answer, "it's an absolute safeguard against a breach of promise action, for the ink is guaranteed to fade completely away within three weeks, leaving the page as blank as though no writing had ever been upon it."

"Mabel, the beautiful grown-up daughter of the house, blushed crimson. "O, Willie," she cried, "how can you say such a thing?" "Well, sis," returned Willie, "when he was saying good-night to you last night I heard him say: 'Mabel, dear, I'm going to steal just one.'"

Smarter Than You!

Michael Nolan, former sailor and lumberjack, now holds the championship of the most intelligent man in the United States. Mike, 43 years old, is a student at the University of Washington. In the army's "Alpha" intelligence test, he made a perfect score of 212 points in 13 minutes. The average score for army officers and university students in the "Alpha" test is only 135. For diversion, Mike likes to be asked the meaning of such words as: ugeratum, chamber, alshim, guimpe, simony, cistegamous and rooco. Knockers will begin telling you about what became of the smartest boy they went to school with. But Mike, you'll observe, is not a boy. He's in the forties—when real intelligence and wisdom begin. No doubt, some one soon will take the brain championship from him, but isn't his feat and his lumberjack origin an amazing evidence of the fact that you can't tell where you'll find well-informed intelligence? Some of the heaviest and most serious thinking these days is done by men with dinnerpails. Trouble with Mike, he lives ahead of his time. If he could live in Lowell 10,000 years from now and make a similar record, he'd get more attention than the Dempsey-Carpenter bout—that is, if they have such things in the year 11231.

No Place For Fear

Most every day brings some grave situation. Not to be feared, but faced. Alternatives offer, in state and in nation. Not to be feared, but faced. Dilemmas confront us each hour of the day. Presenting both right and erroneous ways. These quandaries shouldn't depress us, for they Aren't to be feared, but faced. Each day of our life brings a problem or two. Not to be feared, but solved. We've off with the old one, let's on with the new. Not to be feared, but solved. The puzzle involving the right and the wrong. The question how not to be weak, but be strong. These "dams" in life's school-day come bobbing along. Not to be feared, but solved. Each day in the field there arises a foe. Not to be feared, but fought. He's not to be dodged or avoided, you know. Not to be feared, but fought. There's nothing on earth unmistakably right. That we may maintain without strenuous fight. Intrenched we find always iniquitous might. Not to be feared, but fought. —STIRLING GILLIAN in "Farm Life"

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Evidently the members of the municipal council have again forgotten the petition that was filed with them last year and which called for the widening of Alston street at its junction with Hall street. During the past few years no less than three petitions have been filed with the city fathers for a chance to make the corner less dangerous, and every time a view of the premises was taken, yet the papers were pigeon-holed to be soon forgotten. That corner is considered one of the most dangerous in the city as it is a spot where children are constantly passing or playing, and the view is obstructed by the high brick wall of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. The residents of the district as well as many others who have access through the thoroughfare feel that something should be done to safeguard the lives of people who use that street or who live in that immediate neighborhood. It is understood that another movement is on foot in that locality and that another effort will be made to have the street widened to prevent fatal accidents.

This Little Chess Marvel Is Very Eager to Meet the Polish Prodigy

CELIA NIEMARK

WEST AUSTINTOWN, O., June 10—Samuel Rzeszewski, nine-year-old Polish chess wonder now visiting in America, had best look to his laurels.

Celia Niemark, a little bobbed-haired, glancing-dressed farmer girl, 5 years old, going on seven, lives just outside of West Austintown, is right likely to prove a scumming block in Samuel's victorious chess career.

"This little lady," her dad, Samuel Niemark, will tell you "just comes by chess naturally. She doesn't get it out of a book—her remarkable game comes out of her head."

And nobody, it seems, should know better about Celia than her dad. He's been a chess enthusiast for years.

Dad and Celia's 22-year-old brother David went to Youngstown, O., where Samuel Rzeszewski was playing in that city. David played him and lost. When Celia heard the family talking about Samuel and his wonderful playing she took her first interest in chess.

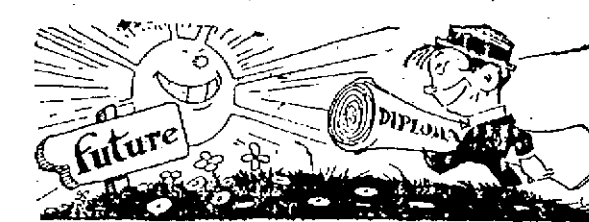

And now? "Celia keeps somebody busy most of the time across the chess board from her," says her mother. "They used to beat Celia—but not any more. Even when they use the chess book moves, Harry Hockman, with Wilfred Kenshaw at the organ. The vested choir of St. Anne's, St. John's, First Baptist, First Congregational and All Saints' churches will participate. Several local pastors will speak following the opening number. Then will follow the reports of the nominating and resolutions committees and miscellaneous business will be transacted.

Rev. W. C. Byrd, pastor of the First Baptist church, Malden, will deliver the address and Rev. Edward C. Downey of the Grace Universalist church will present the loving cups. Rev. J. A. Speel of the Westminster Presbyterian church will close the convention with benediction.

And why not? She has beaten practically every member of the club—young and old.

Asked if she was willing to challenge Rzeszewski, Celia appeared a bit too shy to answer. But her brother broke in:

ANNUAL CONVENTION

Lowell District Sunday School Association Will Hold Annual Convention at First Baptist Church

The Lowell District Sunday School association will hold its annual convention in the First Baptist church next Monday. The meeting will open at 2 o'clock and close at 4 o'clock in the evening after supper there will be another session.

UNEMPLOYED TO MARCH ON CITY HALL

SPRINGFIELD, June 10—Labor union leaders said last night that plan are under way for the mobilization of Springfield's army of unemployed, numbering about 20,000 persons, at Hampden park for a parade to city hall at an early date. A unionist said that in the parade the men would carry the $5 poll tax bills and demand of the mayor a chance to pay their taxes. He said the parade would be a peaceable affair, but would give the city officials an object lesson and show what the jobless are up against.

To every user of gasoline—an important announcement

From now on you can buy Tydol Economy Gasoline at no higher price than other leading brands of gasoline

FROM a "new" gasoline, to the "leading" gasoline in the greatest motoring section of America—that is the five-year record of Tydol.

From Philadelphia to Boston—in practically every city, town and village—on every important road and thoroughfare—Tydol pumps are supplying motorists day and night.

As the thousands of Tydol users—motorists who will "fill up" with nothing but Tydol—have multiplied, doubled and trebled again, we have been able to perfect a distributing system that has brought greater economies. Economies in deliveries, economies in storage, economies in getting Tydol to your city and to your dealer—these have been possible as the network of Tydol distributing stations has spread over New England, New York, New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania.

So to-day we are pleased to announce a reduction in the price of Tydol. From now on you can get Tydol Economy Gasoline at no higher price than other leading brands of gasoline.

A greater economy than ever

No change will be made in the quality of Tydol. Tydol remains the Economy Gasoline. Tydol vaporizes fast. It burns up clean, reducing carbon, and preventing contamination of lubricating oil.

Fill up with Tydol. Look for the orange and black sign to-day.

The World's Richest Bride Says She Will Have a Very Simple Wedding

JUST A QUIET WEDDING

THEN A HONEYMOON IN THE EAST

AND PROBABLY A TRIP TO EUROPE

By R. J. GIBBONS
CHICAGO, June 8.—"I want my marriage to be a lucky one."
This, says Miss Lolita Armour, the world's richest bride, is her reason for wishing a quiet wedding with comparatively little expense and no elaborate gowns. She is the daughter of J. Ogden Armour, the multimillionaire banker. On June 18 she will become the bride of John J. Mitchell, Jr.
A few years ago she was a crippled child. A surgeon's skill saved her from going through life under this handicap.

At Melody farm, Lake Forest, a wealthy suburb near here, she told me that her trousseau would be made of "left-overs," and that her wedding gown would be just a "simple little thing of white velvet," costing less than $200.
"I believe that extravagance is sinful," she went on. "To me it's perfectly absurd for girls to squander their money on an extravagant bridal attire. And no good luck comes from it, either.

"My whole outfit will be very inexpensive. Moreover, I'm not going to wear a single jewel—that is, unless I have to.
"And, oh yes! I will wear a little cap fashioned from lace from my mother's wedding gown. It has no intrinsic value; just sentiment, that's all.
"You see, marriage is a serious affair, and people should realize that it is. Why should I lavish money on my-

MRS. HARDING HAS GAINED 18 POUNDS

Firmly Believe Tanlac Has Added Years to My Life, Says Arlington Woman

"If the people of Massachusetts, who have suffered and tried medicines until they have become down-hearted and discouraged, only knew what Tanlac has done for me they would lose no time in getting a bottle," said Mrs. C. P. Harding, a fashionable dressmaker, residing at 290 Broadway, Arlington, Mass., while discussing the merits of the medicine, a few days ago.

On being asked if she was willing for her statement to be published, Mrs. Harding said: "Yes, indeed, and you may tell them I firmly believe Tanlac has added years to my life. For a number of years I had been in an awful run-down condition. I fell off in weight from one hundred and thirty-six pounds to less than a hundred and had little hope of living much longer.
"My appetite was entirely gone and I was so weak I couldn't get around at all. Everything was done for me. It seems possible to do for a person, as I was under treatment six different times, but with it all I kept getting worse. My nerves were completely shattered, and I would have such weak, dizzy spells that things turned black before me and I would faint dead away.

"My heart would sometimes palpitate like it was trying to come out through my chest. The least little noise would almost set me wild and I could hardly sleep at all. For more than a year I was unable to turn my hands to a thing in the way of work and, as nothing helped me, I became very despondent and thought my days on earth were about over.

"For five years I lived in Seattle, Washington, and while there I found out about Tanlac and began taking it, and in a short time I felt a change for the better. This was over a year ago and since then I have taken ten bottles with the result that I have gained 18 pounds and am now back to my normal weight of one hundred and thirty-six pounds.

"Tanlac has evidently given me a new lease on life for I feel now like a girl, not a woman of 56. I eat just anything I want, sleep like a child every night, and have so much strength and energy that I am not satisfied unless I am busy at work. Tanlac certainly did bring happiness to our home and I thank goodness that it ever came my way. If I could express in words what I really feel everybody would know what a grand medicine it is.

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Haverhill, Mass., by Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

GOV. COX REFUSES TO REINSTATE POLICE

BOSTON, June 10.—Gov. Cox yesterday declined to take any action toward reinstatement of Boston policemen who went out on strike in September, 1919. In a letter to Michael Lynch, who as a representative of the former officers has twice written the governor in their behalf, the governor said the responsibility for the conduct of the police department was vested in the police commissioner and that he saw no occasion for action on his part.

Radio-active substances cause the appearance of colors in glass and porcelain.

self, when there is so much misery in the world? The money could be used for better purposes. And then you wear a wedding gown only once.

"Starting out sanely, a man and wife have a better chance if I were to lavish a small fortune on my trousseau and gown, memory would bring only regrets to me later on.

"It would be pure selfishness and nothing else. I don't believe selfish people are ever lucky, or happy. And that's what I want to be—happy. Dress sanity is a good way to begin."

And so this girl with multiplying millions, who could buy all the finery of Paris if she chose, has disappointed those Chicagoans who were looking forward to a marriage amid regal splendor.

Only intimate friends—about 50 of them—are to be invited to the wedding. It will be held indoors at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

After that there'll be a two weeks' honeymoon in the east and probably a trip to Europe.

Then this couple is coming back to Chicago to "keep house."

Wall Paper

IT'S COMING INTO ITS OWN AGAIN

There has been an enthusiastic revival of scenic wall papers.

Those beautiful designs from the manufacturers across the Atlantic are slowly but surely impressing themselves on the public mind.

And in the latest issues of the exclusive magazines of the home that have appeared within the past few weeks, several articles with these beautiful papers as their leading theme.

Among the latest scenic effects is a very distinctive design by Strahan. The pattern repeats in the length of each strip, as do ordinary scenic, but four strips, each 28 inches wide, are required to show the whole patterns in its entire width.

We have this pattern mounted for your inspection. Ask to see Strahan's scenic.

No Joy in Life of Wife Who Is "Bird in a Gilded Cage"

ALICE CALHOUN, HER HUSBAND NEGLECTS HER. THAT'S HARD TO BELIEVE, BUT THIS IS ONLY A MOVIE HUSBAND.

By JAMES W. DEAN
Suits and salons and pearls had she. Her husband surrounded her with all the luxuries that wealth can buy. But she lived as a bird in gilded cage. For affection is dearer to woman than all the things that money can buy. Neglected, she sought her own amusements in a strange city. A crook became enamored of her. Gossips reached the ears of the husband. He dismissed it lightly and became more deeply engrossed in his business affairs. Then an anonymous letter, that stirred him to action. He faked a business trip. That night the crook came to rob his wife, having been repulsed by her. The husband returned home to find her in the crook's embrace. The crook was holding her to keep her from screaming. The husband did not understand.

Husband was about to shoot crook. saved from lynching years before by the husband. The lynchings were going to kill him because he had shot a man who had stolen his wife.

"Do not close the doors on your wife's future happiness." These were the very words the husband had addressed to the man when he saved him.

Husband and wife became reconciled. The crook reformed, probably because of his near approach to death.

This is the story of "Closed Doors," just completed by Vitagraph with Alice Calhoun as star.

The plot of the rich husband neglecting his home and wife to gain greater wealth is not uncommon in the movies. But neither is it uncommon in life.

And there are husbands who bore their wives to extinction by being too attentive. It would seem that the logical plan to achieve conjugal contentment would be for each husband to ask his wife how many of his waking hours he should spend in her company and arrange his business affairs accordingly.

Alice Calhoun at present is one of the busiest stars in screendom. She just completed "Peggy Gets It Over," and immediately started work on another production.

Hypnotic Movies

A weird motive, hypnotism, is the basis of a forthcoming series of comedies to be released by Educational. They will feature Dr. J. Robert Pauline, who played the part of an hypnotist detective on the American and European stage.

Arthur B. Reeve, detective fiction writer, will write the scenarios. The first two will be called "Spooking Spooks" and "Fixing Fakers." Dorothy Mackall will be leading woman in the comedies. Her place in the "Torchy" comedies will be taken by Betty Carpenter.

In the Spotlight

William Fox will film "Nero" in the studios of an Italian company.

"The Golem," German picture, is ready for its American debut.

"Children of the Night," starring William Russell, is a mystery story.

Paul McAllister has grown a beard for his part as a Hungarian doctor in "Peter Ibbetson."

John Sainpolis returns to Paramount pictures as Skinner, the efficiency expert, in "Capricious Ricks."

SEC. DAVIS SAYS LABOR UNIONS MUST REMAIN

"Labor unions," he declared, "are an organic growth of the times. If you smash them you will have, in their place, secret radical organizations which lead directly to the revolutionary spirit which is unsettling Europe."

"This is no day for the loafer. The man who does not work should receive no pay. I mean the rich loafer as well as the poor ones. The loafer is a thief and worse, for you can put the thief in prison when he steals your money, but the shirker steals your money and you do nothing. The time is here when the labor union must say, 'We will not work with the shirker, who is robbing his employer and who is robbing all of us.' The unions should either fine or fire the loafers. If they do so, the time will come when employers will demand of every employee a union card."

"Let the employer be fair to his employees and let the employees give an honest day's work. We are all too liable to think privately that harmony between the employer and the worker is an ideal impossible of attainment, but I do not agree with that. Let the employee bring clean hands to his work and use his head as well as his hands."

KING AND QUEEN TO BE CROWNED SEPT. 24

ALBA JULIA, Transylvania, June 10. King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania will be crowned here Sept. 24. Plans are now being made for the erection of a church for use in the religious service of the coronation and in memory of the great battles which brought Greater Rumania into being. The church, it is expected, will serve for the crowning of all future kings of Rumania.

On the outskirts of this little Saxon town, where 500 years ago Michael the Brave, Rumania's George Washington, scored a victory over the Hungarians, a monumental arch, with reliefs commemorating events in Rumanian history, will be erected.

On the coronation day, after a service at the new church, at which all the Rumanian bishops will be present, the king and queen, crowned, will proceed to the new triumphal arch, where there will be a great military pageant.

In the afternoon and evening there will be gala entertainments, including a banquet in the hall in which the union of Transylvania with Rumania was proclaimed in December, 1918.

The next day the sovereigns will arrive in Bucharest and make a triumphal entry into the Rumanian capital. Here also an arch will be erected to commemorate the day for future generations.

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie have occupied the Rumanian throne nearly seven years, having succeeded the late King Carol in October of 1914; but on account of the war they never were formally crowned.

It is expected that soon after the coronation the king and queen will visit the United States.

Scenes With "Wallop" Are the Ones That Score "Knock-out"

PRISCILLA DEAN, HER MIDDLE NAME PROBABLY IS "PET." HER PICTURES ARE FULL OF ACTION. LAST ONE, "REPUTATION." NEXT ONE, "CONFLICT."

BY JAMES W. DEAN

Photoplays are like prize-fighters. They must be good in an all-around way or they must carry a knockout. Otherwise those who pay to see them are disappointed.

Movie fans often forget the name of the picture and the name of the actors soon after leaving the theatre. This is speaking of the ordinary picture, seen day in and day out.

But they talk for days about the big moment of the play. Even a race between auto and train still produces a thrill, as it has for years.

Other standby thrillers are train wrecks, auto spills, airplane stunts and horse races.

An innocent man is in the electric chair. Guards are putting on the electrodes. A party with proof of his innocence is racing to the prison in an auto.

A storm has destroyed telephone communication. It also impedes progress of the auto.

The district attorney is in the machine. As the machine passes an electrical power station he rushes in and has all the switches pulled.

The prison is without current. The innocent man is saved by an eyelash, as it were.

This is the "punch" in "Mother of Mine," a recent release. It grips the audience. It is remembered after the fade-out.

Pulling the switch at the power house, miles from the jail, is a novelty. A less ingenious director would have had the rescuing party rush in with a reprieve at the last moment. That is the stereotyped way of saving a man from the electric chair.

The innocent man is willing to die to save the honor of his mother. He is saved by his sweetheart. This is not so unusual in movies.

Lloyd Hughes is the innocent man, Betty Ross Clark, the sweetheart, Claire McDowell, the mother. Betty Blythe is a villainess.

Irene to Dance

Irene Castle will dance in "A Broadway Bride," which marks her return to the screen. Irene has not danced for the stage or screen for more than two years. Ward Crane will be her leading man.

Lewis in "Two Orphans"

Griffith sought six weeks for an actor to play the part of Jacques in "The Two Orphans." At the end of the third week more than 60 had "tried out" for the part.

Then D. W. signed Sheldon Lewis. Lewis had to cancel a vaudeville engagement with his wife, Virginia Pearson, to accept the part.

Three Officers Shot In Belfast

BELFAST, June 10.—A police sergeant and two constables were shot and severely wounded in a street here this afternoon. The shooting is attributed in unionist quarters to an attempt on the part of the Sinn Féin to create such conditions as would prevent King George from coming to attend the opening in state of the Ulster parliament on June 22.

It isn't every kid of six who could buy a twin-six as Jackie Coogan did. He gave it to his mother.

Pearl White is commuting between London and Paris via airplane now.

Wallace Reid wears a wig in "Peter Ibbetson." That, for the first time since he played with Geraldine Farrar in "Joan, the Woman."

"A Poor Relation" is the twelfth picture made jointly by Will Rogers and Clarence Badger, his director.

Einstein's theory of relativity is a diversion for Viola Dana. She reads it when she wants to go to sleep.

Ernest Miller and Waldo Twichel, Goldwyn photographers, secured pictures of sun rays by throwing white powder into the air and photographing it as it filtered down.

Hired Men to Beat Husband

Continued

This statement today to a representative of the Associated Press on the train that was carrying him, Mrs. Kaber and her daughter, Miss Marian McAdie, back to Cleveland.

Chief Christensen, however, denied a report that the two men had been ordered to pose as ghosts. He also stated that Mrs. Kaber had not implicated her daughter.

Report Men Hired as Ghosts

NEW YORK, June 10.—Dan F. Kaber, wealthy Lakewood publisher, met death after attacking two foreigners engaged by Mrs. Kaber to pose as spirits and frighten him into a better attitude toward her, according to a statement which the New York Evening World today says Chief of Police Christensen of Lakewood, obtained from Mrs. Kaber here.

The newspaper quotes Chief Christensen as saying that Mrs. Kaber had consulted a woman medium for advice as to how to change her husband's attitude toward her. His surly manner after an illness was said to have occasioned the visit to the medium.

By advice of this medium, Mrs. Kaber was said to have employed two foreigners to appear at her husband's bedside in the night as ghosts and, as she expressed it, to try and shake a little civility into him.

Aroused from his slumber, Mr. Kaber attacked the two men and was stabbed to death in the struggle.

According to the newspaper Chief Christensen said Mrs. Kaber had declared that she had refused to pay the two foreigners when they reappeared after the funeral, asserting they had not fulfilled the role of ghosts as she had intended and that she would not involve herself by paying for murder.

Mrs. Kaber then was said to have fled to New York to escape the foreigners without advising the Cleveland police for fear of involving herself.

TONIGHT'S GAME

Centralvilles vs. Highland Day-Lights.

The South Ends got back into their old stride last night in their game with the Gillespies on the South end, and thanks to the come-back of Charley Sharkey as a pitcher, the "southerners" were able to hand the warring machine men a 4-2 defeat. It was an exceptionally well-played game, although lacking the excitement and spectacular features of the Broadway-C.M.A.C. of the evening before.

Sharkey hasn't done any pitching to speak of for a number of years, but he demonstrated last evening that the old wing still has a lot of good baseball left. He found it a little difficult to locate the plate at first but once he got into his stride he showed down the opposing batters with ease. His arm was perhaps not the reliable factor that it was in years past, but his experience and inside knowledge of the game brought him over the rough places triumphantly.

Sammy Poultier pitched for the Gillespies, but didn't seem to be able to shake off the honcho of hard luck that has followed him this season. He pitched good ball, got fairly good support, but somehow or other the breaks went the opposite way.

The playing field presented a most satisfactory appearance last evening. The big tree in left field which had been the subject of much discussion and agitation since the opening of the season was removed and the park department had extended the wire along the third base line clear up to the slope of the common, thus giving the fielder plenty of room in which to work.

It looked for a time as though there would be no game last night owing to a smart thunder shower that pelted down around 8 o'clock, but as soon as the rain let up the sun shined again and the field was in great condition when Umpire Morgan started activities.

Neither team scored in the first inning, but in the second the Gillespies got two when Broonan and O'Hare were passed. Broonan stole third and came home when O'Hare threw wild to third. O'Hare went to second on the play and sped home when Poultier hit hard to the outfield. The Sun not only pitched a good game, but sent in one of his team's two runs.

There was nothing doing until the fourth when the South Ends succeeded in sending three tallies across. A combination of three hits and an error gave Wally Lyons' men the game and just to make it sure they sent across another in the sixth. The Gillespies were silent after their outburst in the second inning, although in their half of the fourth they had three men on the bases. Charley Sharkey was struck out. He pitched the third strike but to no avail. The score:

Notes of the Game
Centralvilles and Highland Day-Lights tonight at 8. If the Centralvilles lose the South Ends go into the lead.

The park department certainly did a great job in left field. When a ball hit there now the fielder has all the room in the world to go after it. The idea of extending the wire keeping the crowd back right up to the concrete sidewalk on the slope of the hill was an excellent one. Now if the police officers will keep the crowd inside the line everything will be to the mercy.

The sixth week of the season is nearly over. But there's a long road to go.

Hart and Morgan both did good jobs last night, although some of the players disputed Morgan's callings of balls and strikes at times.

Charley Sharkey's great pitching was the talk of the town last night. Since being appointed to the Lowell police force several years ago, Sharkey has not played much baseball, except an occasional game with the Police team. Last night he tore the mound with all of his old time confidence and cunning, and at times he had his opponents "breaking their backs" in a futile endeavor to come.

A few years ago no southpaw in this vicinity had a thing on the sorrel-topped header.

Jack Raper's dope on the big bout. Everybody's calling Carpenter the man up mystery. That's what they used to call Poni.

Jack McAuliffe, a champion of years ago, looked over Carpenter and then remarked, "He has a pasty look." Just what the fighters nowadays have a doughy look.

From what we can learn from the newspapers, the busiest man in the Carpenter camp is the cook.

Our own idea of a prizefighter's menu is that it should be selected from this list:
Fish, plika preferred—dne for road work.
Round steak.
Chops.
Hash—It's generally made of scraps.
Duck.
Cauliflower.
For dessert—Pound cake with whipped cream, sponge cake, punch or claret.

Jack Dempsey is doing light work at Atlantic City. That's what Thomas A. Edison is doing at Orange, N. J.

They're beginning to talk now about who should be the referee. We have no candidate for the job, but we think Morgan should be holding the stakes.

Dempsey is said to be doing just enough work to keep from getting fat. Poor old Jess Willard. The days were too short for him to do that much work. Jess was so fat he couldn't move fast when he played checkers.

Nearly all the sport eds call Dempsey a whale. Probably on account of his heavy blows.

A prizefight ring is the only known thing that has corners.

THE INSIDER
New York fans haven't given up the idea of a local world series this fall.

Ed Moremans has convinced a lot of lovers that he is their master during his stay in this country.

They are calling the Baltimore Orioles the non-stop team.

Failure of enough entries to breeze in for the King Albert Cup races has caused the postponement of the yacht classic.

The quiet sign hangs out so often at Carpenter's barbed wire castle that the place resembles a hospital zone.

No racing season is complete until you hear the cheers.

That always erect the grand old vet of racing tracks—Pop Geers.

The pawn shops will do a big business after July 2.

Connie Mack doesn't care how poor a ball player plays so long as he tries.

SPORTS AT OUTING
The result of the sporting events at the annual joint outing of the Lowell Lawrence and Haverhill Commercial colleges, which was held at Canobie lake park yesterday, was as follows:

Girls' 50 yard dash: Marion (Lowell); ball throwing contest: Miss Edith Johnson and Miss Catherine Dulligan, both of Lowell; boys' 100 yard dash, first, Harry Sullivan; second, Harry Sullivan and third, Ted Roberge. In a baseball game Lowell was successful over Haverhill, 12 to 1, and the bowling contest went to Lawrence.

SIGNS WITH CINCINNATI
FORT WORTH, Tex., June 10.—Pete Donahue, right-handed pitcher, of Texas Christian university, has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds and will leave here next Tuesday to join the team. Six major league clubs were bidding for his services.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Announcement of the appointment of Roy Haynes, a Hillsboro, Ohio, editor, as national prohibition commissioner, was made today at the White House.

Mr. Haynes, who succeeds John F. Kramer, is expected to take office as soon as he can arrange his personal affairs. The appointment does not require senate confirmation. The new commissioner is editor of the Hillsboro Dispatch and was one of the first Ohio editors to suggest the nomination of Mr. Harding for president. He has been a factor in Ohio republican politics for a number of years.

Sen. McCormick Repeats Conversation He Had With German Financial Leader

Said Destiny Would Lead United States to World Dominion

CHICAGO, June 10.—Senator Medill McCormick, speaking at a convention of Illinois bankers today, repeated a conversation he had with a German financial leader, who compared the United States to a second Rome, whose destiny would lead it to world domination.

Last year at the American embassy in Berlin, Senator McCormick said, "One of the German leaders in finance who today is a member of the cabinet said we had witnessed the re-enactment of a very old drama. We had seen again the wars of ancient Greece—the dissipation of wealth and the stricken civilization of Europe."

"Now we shall witness," he said, "the inevitable and irresistible coming of a second Rome, to conquer the old civilized states of Europe, swollen with decay engendered by rivalries, divisions and hatreds which they cannot cure. Peace, a Roman and lasting peace, will be laid upon them by the new master of the world."

"There is nothing further from the thoughts of the American people," I replied, "nothing more remote from their hearts than conquest."

"It is not a question of your will to conquer," he said. "An inevitable, an irresistible destiny will carry you on to domination whether you will or not. What matters it whether your conquest be economic or military? It will control."

CERTAIN SACCO WAS IN AUTO

Woman Reiterates Her Belief That He Was in Car That Fled After Shooting

Miss Splain Cross-Examined at Trial of Sacco and Vanzetti at Dedham

DEDHAM, June 10.—Miss Mary E. Splain, who yesterday identified Nicola Sacco as a passenger in the automobile that fled with the men who killed and robbed a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree on April 15, 1920, testified today that while there was a possibility of doubt she felt certain that Sacco was the man.

Continuing under cross-examination at the trial for the murders of Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Miss Splain's attention was called to her lower court testimony shortly after the arrest of Sacco and Vanzetti when she was quoted as saying: "I don't think my opportunity afforded me the right to say that he is the man." She said today that she meant what she said, she had charged her mind as to whether she had any doubt that Sacco was the man without seeing him since his appearance in the lower court, counsel for the defense developed. Originally he was brought before her for identification alone, and was not lined up with other men, she said.

Two eye-witnesses of the shooting who followed Miss Splain said they could not identify the murderer. James E. McGlone, a teamster, who was working across the street from the scene of the crime, said he saw one bandit holding Alessandro Berardelli, the paymaster's guard, by the shoulder and shooting him with a black automatic pistol. As the automobile which took the bandits away passed up the street McGlone said he thought he saw a rifle stuck out through the back window.

Mrs. Anne Nichols who lived diagonally across from the scene of the shooting, testified that she heard and shot came from a police car, a mile of bricks directly opposite the scene of the attack. She saw Berardelli shot down and P. A. Parmenter, the paymaster, run. She saw the bandits jump into the automobile but she said she could not say whether either Sacco or Vanzetti were among the men.

McGlone said the bandits, three in all, were of medium height and looked like Italians.

Saw Men Shooting

Two other eye-witnesses of the shooting failed to identify the defendants as the murderer.

Edgar C. Langola, a shoe factory foreman, said he heard a shot, opened a second-story window, and looking down at the disturbance saw two short, dark men, one of them with wavy hair, shooting. As the automobile which took them away went up the street, he saw a long-barreled gun protruding through a rear window.

Morris A. Colbert, a railroad towerman, who was standing in the back door of a house diagonally across the street from the scene of the robbery, saw two bandits from behind. He could not identify the men, he said.

STOCK MARKET

The following is a complete report, giving high, low and closing quotations:

NEW YORK, June 10.—Selling pressure was resumed at the opening of today's stock market. A few leaders, particularly high priced oils, showed slight recoveries from yesterday's recessions. On the reduced dividend Utah Copper made a further decline of one point and Atlantic Gulf lost 1 1/2. Bethlehem, Crucible, Vanadium and Gilt-edged States Steels were fractionally lower with American Smelting, Itals and equipments made nominal gains and losses. Prices steadied within the first half hour on buying of Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum and Baldwin Locomotive, with a brisk rally in Utah Copper. Exchange on London forfeited part of yesterday's recovery. Momentum was given to the early rally by a 5 per cent. opening rate for all money. Oils, including General Asphalt, California Petroleum, Associated Oil and Pacific Oil, motor and like issues strengthened, American and Baldwin Locomotives, American Car and Pullman were among the stronger equipments. Shipplings, leathers and furs made moderate gains. Offsetting features embraced Atlantic Gulf, New York Airbrake, Montana Power, Famous Players, Common and preferred, and several of the gas shares which declined 1 to 1 1/2 points. In the bond market Liberty 3 1/2s showed exceptional strength.

Oils, especially Mexican Petroleum, were sharply depressed in the final hour at extreme declines of 3 to almost 8 and provoking fresh selling in the general list. The closing was heavy.

FOREST FIRES SPREAD IN STATE OF MAINE

BANGOR, Me., June 10.—While improved in some instances, the forest fire situation which is the most serious since 1903, when one-tenth of the wooded area of the state was burned over, was regarded today by local lumber concerns to be increasing in seriousness. The fire which broke out anew Thursday in township four was raging unabated despite the efforts of 300 fire fighters who worked continuously through Thursday night. Today the force was considerably increased, 50 men being sent from here and others being summoned from towns near by.

In townships 41 and 43 in the vicinity of Nicheolas lake, the fire which has already swept over a tract six miles long and a mile wide, was burning furiously, getting beyond the control of the 150 men fighting it.

100 MINERS TRAPPED IN MINE BY FIRE

PERU, June 10.—More than 100 miners were trapped today by fire in the mine of the St. Paul railroad at Mark, near here. A rescue crew equipped with helmets, attempted to reach them.

BOSTON, June 10.—The $40,000 mansion in Lexington which Charles Ponzi bought and lived in at the height of his financial career, will be thrown into the scanty assets of his quick-rich scheme. Federal Judge Anderson today found in favor of the promoters' trustees in bankruptcy who sought such disposition of the house.

LEGAL OPINIONAttorney Asserts Initiative
Petitions Will Survive Officials' Failure to Act

The publication in The Sun yesterday of the opinion of City Solicitor William D. Regan that the chamber of commerce's initiative movement for contract work on the streets might reach a final quiet resting place, unacted upon, in the files of the city clerk's office, started things moving in the chamber's rooms this morning. Mr. Regan's opinion was to the effect that should it be impossible for the clerk and the election commissioners to comply with the provision of the city charter that the residences of nearly 2000 legal voters shall be certified as being of April 1, the petitions would automatically become of no effect.

An Attorney's Opinion
A leading attorney was consulted by the chamber officials today and he gave an opinion "that the petitions would not become ineffective or invalidated or dead, in the case that the election commissioners did not check the names and the city clerk attach his certificate of sufficiency within 10 days because of incomplete records, or gap in clerical matters."

Chamber officials are backed in their belief that the names must be checked by the latest available list.

If, perchance, petitions were filed in the second day of April, 1921, the assessors not having gathered names by that time, then it is believed that the commissioners would have to check the names within 10 days according to the latest available list, which would be that of 1920.

City Solicitor Comments
When this statement was called to the attention of City Solicitor Regan today he reiterated his opinion of yesterday. He said that the provisions of the law regarding the duties of city officials in connection with initiative petitions are explicit and mandatory. If they fail to perform them they may be summoned into court on a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel them to perform what is required of them if it shall be apparent that their failure to act is due to conditions under their control, but a court would not order them to do that which is physically impossible.

Section 35 of the city charter provides that initiative petitions shall be signed by "voters qualified to vote at city elections" and that "every signer shall add to his signature his place of residence on the previous first day of April, giving the street and number, if any. The charter also provides that each petition shall be examined to ascertain whether it is signed by the number of voters, as above prescribed."

Could Not Use Check List

City Solicitor Regan sits down on the contention of the chamber of commerce's attorney that a check list of 1920 could be used to ascertain whether the addresses were those of 1921, and points out that this would be clearly illegal. He says that the law has nothing to say about the use of any check list, and does not provide any method by which the city clerk and his assistants shall ascertain whether the addresses are those of the first April of the current year. They may use any method that they choose to ascertain whether the addresses are correct, but obviously about the only practical method, in Mr. Regan's opinion, is to use the lists as made up by the assessors in making their rounds in April previous to the filing of an initiative petition.

List Not Available

As stated yesterday the 1921 list of voters will not be available for many weeks. Part of the assessors' lists of all of the persons over 20 years of age in the city are in the hands of a printer and part are in the office of the election commissioners. Whether it will be possible to use all of these in comparing addresses with those on the initiative petitions remains uncertain.

The suggestion that the commissioners, as an emergency measure, might use the voting lists of last year in checking-up the addresses on the initiative petitions was met with the statement by Mr. Regan that, while such action might "get by" without being officially questioned, it would leave the whole matter subject to be opened for review by the courts at any time.

It is announced that the chamber officials will get the initiative petitions off their hands by filing them in the city clerk's office next Monday.

NO COURT SESSION
AS JUDGE IS SICK

On the door of the superior court room this morning was posted a notice, signed by Sheriff John R. Fairbairn, stating that as there was no justice present there would be no session of the court until next Monday. Judge Franklin T. Hammond, who had been scheduled to take his place on the bench, was confined to his home by sickness.

NERVY THIEF WALKS OFF WITH GUM MACHINE

A nervy thief walked into the White Lunch, located on Middlesex street, told the cashier that he represented a company owning the chewing gum machine which rested on the counter, and nonchalantly departed with the said machine. The occurrence was reported to the police department by the owner of the establishment, N. C. Walker, who was absent from the luncheon at the time of the larceny.

An especial irony was lent to the happening because of the fact that the machine in reality did not belong to any company, but was the property of Walker himself. Upon his return to his place of business, he queried the cashier relative to the disappearance of the machine, and she informed him that an agent of the company to which the device belonged came and took it away with him. Walker immediately realized that he had been made the victim of a peculiarly daring example of petty larceny. The machine was worth $5 empty, he states, and was half full of penny balls of gum, of which it holds 800, at the time it was stolen.

As the police authorities did not see fit to give publicity to Mr. Walker's report of his loss, he concluded to announce it himself in hopes that by being published in the press it might enable other business men and their employees to prevent a similar swindle being palmed off on them. Walker declared today that during the past seven years, during which period he has been in business for himself, he has been the loser to the extent of some $250 or $300, through loss of gum machines of the same general type as was stolen from his luncheon on Monday.

was depicted. An unusual scene followed. What happened was substantially as follows: Alice A. Morrey Donahue, with a long newspaper clipping in his hand, to which he frequently refers, said Mr. Donahue, "that the Lowell Trust company has been responsible for the delay in settling this case. Now it appears that it was not the fault of the Trust company at all, but that the effort to reach irrelevant testimony into the record in Coffey's interest has been responsible for holding back a settlement. The court has sustained every contention of the Trust company. We have been anxious to secure a prompt settlement from the beginning."

"I want this to go into the record," continued Attorney Donahue, as he read from the newspaper clippings in his hands, a quotation of remarks at a hearing in the case in open court of attorneys that the Trust company was holding up the case.

"I object to the admission of this as evidence," said Mr. O'Donoghue.

Was Not Evidence
"This is not evidence. It is a statement that I am entitled to make," responded Mr. Donahue.

Mr. O'Donoghue: "I object." Mr. Donahue: "If Mr. O'Donoghue objects."

Mr. Donahue: "I say that the Lowell Trust company has been to blame for the delay."

Mr. Donahue: "I say the Trust company was not to blame; you are ignorant of the law as of the facts in this case. I don't change my opinion of the law overnight."

Mr. O'Donoghue arose to his feet and nervously paced the floor as the two attorneys engaged in a heated dialogue in which each frequently interrupted the other's statements.

Finally Mr. O'Donoghue said that he was anxious that his opponent's statements should go into the record.

"That closes the matter, then, and supports my contention that the Lowell Trust company has not been to blame for the delay in the case," said Mr. Donahue.

Master Takes Hand
Continuing Mr. Donahue charged that Mr. O'Donoghue had "been running around to get rumors before the court and the judge had sat upon them."

"I beg pardon, I don't think that is so," interjected Master MacIntyre. "I am sorry you were appointed a master to hear this case," observed Mr. Donahue.

Master MacIntyre: "That is outside of this case." Mr. Donahue: "It is true nevertheless."

Master MacIntyre: "Let us not discuss it." Mr. Donahue: "We will discuss it nevertheless."

The subject was not discussed much further, though, it was ordered that the taking of testimony in the case should be discontinued, subject to being reopened in a certain contingency, and the hearing of arguments began.

CHARGES FORMATION OF BOOTLEGGERS' TRUST

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Charges that certain brewers and men prominent in big city financial affairs have organized a bootleggers' trust, which spreads far and wide and have made law enforcement extremely difficult, were made today before the house rules committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America.

He appeared in support of the request of Chairman Volstead of the judiciary committee for a special rule to give his beer and prohibition tightening up bill right of way in the house, but the committee adjourned until next week without taking action on the request. Mr. Wheeler was not questioned about the liquor trust and did not go into details.

Senator Harrison said that Admiral Sims "ought to be got rid of from the navy" if he was quoted accurately and he also reiterated his demand for Ambassador Harney's recall.

Noting that Secretary Denby had called upon Admiral Sims for an explanation within 21 hours, Senator Harrison said that no official of the government had taken similar action as to Ambassador Harney.

RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

Resolution Asking U. S. to Act
To Be Presented to A. F. of L. Convention

Also Calls for Withdrawal of British Troops From Ireland and Repayment of Loan

DENVER, Colo., June 10.—Immediate recognition of the Irish republic, withdrawal of the British troops from Ireland and repayment by Great Britain of the nine billion dollars loaned by the United States, is demanded in the resolution tentatively drafted by Irish sympathizers to be submitted to the convention of the American Federation of Labor here next week.

This resolution, it was learned today, has been decided upon at a meeting of delegates headed by Peter J. Brady of New York.

The Irish sympathizers will ask the Federation to call upon President Harding to communicate immediately a message to congress urging recognition of the Irish republic and formally protesting against the alleged "barbarous warfare" being carried on by British troops in Ireland. Repayment of the English loan is asked on the ground that the British government is using the money to maintain soldiers to suppress Ireland and "other small nations" and to carry out a great naval expansion program.

"Approximately 95 per cent. of the delegates to the convention are Irish sympathizers," said Mr. Brady, who asserted that support to the resolution had been pledged by a large majority. Elimination of jurisdictional and inter-union strikes was the main issue before the convention of the building trades department of the federation today. Resolutions were presented endorsing the work of the national board of jurisdictional awards, which has been successful in settling a large number of jurisdictional disputes in the building trades during the last year.

Should the convention endorse this arbitration body, labor leaders and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, which has defied a decision of the board, will be compelled to accept the award handed down against it in its controversy with the Sheet Metal Workers. In this dispute the board decreed that sheet metal workers were entitled to do the installation of metal frames and fixtures in buildings.

William L. Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters and Joiners, claims that

FOR IMPROPER CONDUCT

Rose Warren Gets Six Months in Jail—Dewitt Mosely Fined

Rose Warren appeared in police court today charged with improper conduct and drunkenness. Officer Cooney told of finding the defendant about 1:30 a. m. Sunday, in a room of a Worthen street lodging house where the other occupants were 12 men. Other officers delivered similar testimony, some of it of the most sordid description.

Grover Warren, the woman's husband, took the stand and said that he had seen her on the street with different men, and had seen her go into several houses, sometimes remaining all night. Married in 1917, the couple have not lived together for nearly four years, said the witness.

A finding of guilty was made on both counts. On the charge of improper conduct a six months' house of correction sentence was imposed, while the drunkenness case was fled.

Disorderly House
Dewitt Mosely, the proprietor of the house where the Warren woman was arrested, was next called before the court, on charges of maintaining a disorderly house. When the house was raided Sunday, Officer Goggin testified, 10 Jamaica ginger bottles were found. Officer Cooney produced a full Jamaica ginger bottle which he testified was found in a bed at the house on the night of the raid.

Mosely was found guilty and fined $50 on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, while a complaint of being present at a game on the Lord's day was fled.

FRACTURED HIS LEG SLIDING FOR THIRD

his organization is entitled to do this work and will disregard the decision. The position taken by the carpenters has been declared by John Donlan, president of the building trades department, a menace to the successful operation of the national board. He urged the convention to take action maintaining that the elimination of inter-union controversies was necessary to stabilizing the building industry.

TAKING THE FIRE TO THE FIREHOUSE

Lowell may some day have movable houses reposing on wheels, and capable of being towed, or proceeding under their own power, in any desired direction.

This possibility was indicated in one of the strangest instances of fire extinguishing that Lowell has seen in many moons. For, instead of the fire apparatus going to the scene of the conflagration, the scene of the conflagration went to the fire apparatus.

Harry L. Cote, himself a newly appointed member of the local fire-fighting organization, was driving his valuable geared-up, bullet-shaped, racing-model Ford automobile along Enell street about 8:30 p. m. yesterday, when suddenly flames spurted from the rear of the machine. Instead of leaving the car and running in an alarm, Cote merely glanced nonchalantly at the scorching blaze which had proceeded from ignited batteries and was now

Lowell may some day have movable houses reposing on wheels, and capable of being towed, or proceeding under their own power, in any desired direction.

This possibility was indicated in one of the strangest instances of fire extinguishing that Lowell has seen in many moons. For, instead of the fire apparatus going to the scene of the conflagration, the scene of the conflagration went to the fire apparatus.

Harry L. Cote, himself a newly appointed member of the local fire-fighting organization, was driving his valuable geared-up, bullet-shaped, racing-model Ford automobile along Enell street about 8:30 p. m. yesterday, when suddenly flames spurted from the rear of the machine. Instead of leaving the car and running in an alarm, Cote merely glanced nonchalantly at the scorching blaze which had proceeded from ignited batteries and was now devouring the cushions. Then he speeded up his machine, and tore along the highway in the direction of the West 5th street fire station, leaving a lurid and spark-streaked trail of roaring fire in his wake. Unhindered by the proximity of the conflagration to his gasoline tank, he continued on his way, followed by excited residents, until he reached his appointed destination. Then he calmly brought the machine to a stop, jumped out, and assisted the firemen on duty at the firehouse to combat the high-leaping flames.

Due to Cote's prompt action the fire was extinguished without serious damage to the machine. Chemists did the work. Less presence of mind, involving a hasty leap to the street when a pedestrian shouted to him that his machine was ablaze, and a search for a box, might have resulted in a total loss of the machine. As it was, the flames were held in check by the speed of the journey to the fire department headquarters in that section. Cote is a familiar figure in Lowell, with his car of blue with red wheels.

His achievement of last evening opens a vista for fantastic imaginings. If your house catches fire and there is no box nearby, or some accident has put the wires temporarily out of commission, you can take a trip to the fire station if the structure is on fire. Think of the convenience in putting in your winter's coat! Or what a marvelous convenience to drive the family domicile up to the plumber's shop to have a small bit of repairing done. It would save thousands of dollars! For he could make his nineteen or twenty trips back to the shop for tools inside of a few moments. And if you lived in Lawrence and suddenly heard about Lowell, you could move, house and all!

I, the undersigned, wish to publicly thank the kind friends, neighbors, and all those who endeavored to lighten the sorrow caused by the death of my dear mother. For all consoling words and floral tributes and spiritual bouquets I am deeply grateful.

It is estimated that 80,000 Greek troops are available for this struggle, while the Turks have about 60,000 effectives between Brusa and Smyrna. British supplies are being given the Greeks, but it is understood the British will not take an active part in the offensive. King Constantine of Greece will leave Athens on Saturday for Smyrna with a number of government officials and it is presumed that nominally at least, he will be in command of the Greek attack on the nationalists' position.
